HOUSE FAVORS McNARY-HAUGEN FARM RELIEF

REJECTS ASWELL SUBSTITUTE BILL BY 144-160 VOTE

VOTE INDICATES STRENGTH OF THE FARM BLOC IN CONGRESS

ASWELL BILL CONTAINED NO EQUALIZATION FEE PROVISION

By WILLIAM J. McEVVOY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 17. — (UP) — Passage of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was indicated by the house today when it rejected the Aswell substitute bill, 144 to 160.

The vote showed the farm bloc had sufficient votes to send the measure to the president in the form it passed the senate.

The Aswell bill was similar to the McNary-Haugen bill, except that it contained no equalization fee provision. It authorized loans to farmers through co-operative marketing associations.

Rep. Haugen, republican, Iowa, co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill, announced he planned to keep the house in session all night if necessary to force a final vote.

He said this plan was the result of demands from several score members, who wanted to dispose of the bill before adjournment.

"The sentiment of the members," Haugen said, "seems to be in favor of disposing of the bill today and I must be guided by that sentiment. Of course, if there is a change in sentiment later in the day we will not carry out our plan to hold the house here to pass the bill."

The Curtis-Crisp substitute also was rejected, thus eliminating the two greatest obstacles to passage of the bill without change. Like the Aswell bill, it contained no equalization fee provision.

The vote was 156 to 177. A substitute offered by Rep. Jones, democrat, Texas, embodying the Adkins debenture plan, was rejected, 33 to 110.

The vote on the Aswell substitute came after Republican Floor Leader Tilson, Connecticut, and Democratic Leader Garrett, Tennessee, condemned the McNary-Haugen bill.

After amendments by Representatives Jacobstein, democrat, New York; Hill, republican, Maryland; and Newton, republican, Minnesota, were rejected, reading of the second section of the bill for amendment was started. Rep. Blanton, democrat, Texas, sought unsuccessfully to have further reading for amendment dispensed with, thus forcing an immediate vote.

Indications were that a final vote might be reached late in the afternoon, although if amendments continued to be offered at the same rate as in the early part of the reading of the bill, it was believed action would be delayed until the night session.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The administration's final drive against passage of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill began in the house today with a stinging attack on the measure by Republican Floor Leader Tilson, Connecticut.

Tilson said the bill "leads in the direction of Sovietism and is in fact a considerable step in that direction." He also challenged its constitutionality.

Tilson centered his argument of the provision limiting the president in appointing members of the proposed farm board to persons nominated by farm associations and co-operative organizations.

"The bill," Tilson said, "means that a particular class of our citizens acting through representatives of their own choosing are to be clothed with tremendous powers over the very means of life itself, affecting the lives and fortunes of the whole people."

"In the establishment of our government under the constitution, it was contemplated that the executive should be charged with the responsibility of executing the laws."

"This bill is the most serious attempt thus far taken to break down one of the wisest and best provisions of the constitution. The attempt should fail here."

POLICE INVESTIGATE REPORTED JEWEL THEFT

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 17.—(UP)—Police today are investigating the reported theft of jewelry valued at $35,000, from the hotel room of Robert Herrmon, Cincinnati salesman, here last night. Herrmon told the police that at least 500 watches were taken by the thieves who "picked" the lock of his room.

ECCENTRIC KILLER OF 13 MAY YET ESCAPE CHAIR

Austin, Texas, Feb. 17.—(UP)—George J. Hassel, eccentric killer of 13 persons, may yet escape the electric chair, the punishment he has asked for.

In a conference with Governor Dan Moody this afternoon, Mrs. P. A. Watson of Fort Worth, sister of the doomed man, made an impassioned plea for a commutation of his sentence. Moody refused for the second time to commute the death sentence, but did promise her the execution date would be extended to permit a sanity hearing, if granted by the court.

PROHIBITION LEGISLATION IS TIED UP

TOO MUCH RED TAPE OF POLITICS SEEMS IN EVIDENCE

NO ACTION EXPECTED BY CONGRESS, ADJOURNING IN TWO WEEKS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 17.—Bound with the red tape of politics, vital prohibition legislation now pending seems certain of defeat by default when congress adjourns two weeks from tomorrow.

The government medicinal whiskey bill has been buried by a house committee; the bill to put prohibition agents under civil service has been languishing for nearly a year on the senate calendar; and the prohibition customs reorganization bill has been so emasculated that it will bear recognition to few. A bill to add more enforcement provisions to the Volstead act, passed by the house last session, is pending in the senate.

The customs bill may be passed in the closing moments. The failure of the general "dry" legislation, tightening prohibition enforcement is expected to have an important influence upon the coming presidential campaign.

Although wets are not entirely responsible for defeat of the legislation, they are elated and look forward with eagerness to expected future developments. The story behind their opposition to the dry legislation is this:

If the bills which Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews says are needed, fail of enactment, Andrews may resign. The wets would look upon his resignation as another blow to prohibition. They also have been informed that Andrews may make a statement if and when he resigns which may set forth the difficulties of law enforcement—a document which would be of inestimable value to them.

Furthermore, they could say, if the bills failed, that the dry congress was responsible, since both houses are overwhelmingly "dry."

Thus they could avoid responsibility and reap benefits, it is figured. If the prohibition-customs bill passes, it will only be because the wets let it slip through. Several wet senators already have withdrawn their opposition but Senator Edwards, democrat, New Jersey, has indicated he will use every possible means to defeat the measure, so its possibilities of weathering the last minute jam are by no means bright.

MARINES TRY TO SAVE DYKE AT SAN DIEGO

WATERS FROM FLOODED SAN DIEGO RIVER LAP OVER ITS TOP

IF IT CRUMBLES, $2,000,000 MARINE BASE WILL BE DESTROYED

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 17.—(UP)—All United States marines working in a desperate attempt to save the old town dyke were ordered temporarily from the structure today.

Water from the flooded San Diego river lapped over the top of the dyke which was expected to give way momentarily. If it crumbles under the force of the raging river, the $2,000,000 marine base at San Diego probably will be destroyed, officials said.

The marines, 300 strong, had been working feverishly all night trying to strengthen the dyke. They were recalled at dawn when it was decided that their lives would be imperiled if they remained longer on the weakened structure.

No trace had been found today of the 10 Chinese truck farmers near Mission gardens who were caught by the flood waters that swept down the river bed there.

Sensational rescues near Mission valley were numerous today. Several residents were saved from floating trees and house-tops. One unidentified boy swam through the torrent to save a woman trapped on the roof of her home.

Disasters throughout the district, including the floods, and a snow slide near Fresno, left at least 27 persons dead in addition to the 10 missing Chinese.

Five men were reported dying as rescuers dug through the snow for bodies of eight of the 13 victims of an avalanche which crushed a construction camp of the southern California Edison Company in the high sierras.

Both the Santa Fe railroad and highway bridges were expected to go out. Guards on both sides were watching closely for first sign of the supports breaking.

Dynamite crews were sent to the long bridge connecting Mission Beach and Ocean Beach. Driftwood and trees were gathering so rapidly at the bottom of the bridge that it was decided to attempt to blow the obstruction away before the span was carried down.

Travel on the swaying bridge was halted. The torrent from the melting mountain snows swept down with such force today that the Pacific ocean was black with mud for several hundred yards out from shore.

All organizations in the city joined today in denying reports that the Cuyamaca dam high in the mountains had broken. Persistent reports had it that the huge water barrier had given away and that a wall of water was rushing toward San Diego.

Fear was expressed that the new Tia Juana bridge over the Tia Juana river would be swept away. Supports at both ends of the bridge went out shortly before midnight. Chula Vista, seven miles from San Diego, has lost its water supply, reports said. Food and water was being rationed by police.

National City residents were warned to store water supplies in expectation of the water mains becoming blocked. The highway from San Diego to National City was impassable.

Schools both in National City and Chula Vista were closed indefinitely. Damage in National City was estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Delmar was flooded. The bridge there over the San Dieguito river was washed out.

Washing away of power poles south of San Diego threw Tia Juana in darkness. Customs officials at the border carried on their work by candle-light.

Saloons and gambling houses in the little border Monte Carlo presented a strange sight this morning. Flickering candles shed the only light on the tables where some pa-

BRITAIN FOG BOUND FOR SEVENTH DAY

London, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Britain was fog-bound today for the seventh successive day, and in the Westminster section of London, where are situated the famous abbey, the house of parliament, and the homes of many celebrated persons, there had been no sunlight for 11 days.

At Kew, on the outskirts of the city, where sunshine is a comparatively frequent phenomenon, there had been only six minutes of sunlight.

The older generation and the newspapers today recalled the famous December of 1890, when London was without sun for an entire month.

Millions of dollars have been lost because of the fog, which has affected business, rail, water, and air transportation, and the normal life of the people in various ways.

It has been 37 years since Britain suffered weather so gloomy as that of the past few days.

MINNESOTA POTATO STOCKS RICHER BY MILLION BUSHELS

St. Paul, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Minnesota potato stocks are richer this year by more than 1,000,000 bushels when compared to a year ago, according to a report issued today by Paul H. Kirk, state agricultural statistician.

Growers and dealers throughout the state were said to have on hand 7,964,000 bushels of the tuber compared to 6,925,000 during 1926. Kirk pointed out, however, that stocks this year are half what they were two years ago.

For the nineteen surplus late states the report showed as of January 1, this year, 72,244,000 bushels in the hands of growers and local dealers, compared with 63,198,000 bushels Jan. 1, one year ago.

SMITH'S ILLNESS DELAYS INVESTIGATION

Washington, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Further investigation into the qualifications of Senator-designate Frank L. Smith was delayed indefinitely today because of Smith's illness.

The privileges and elections committee, making the investigation, acquiesced in a request from his counsel, Cornelius J. Doyle, Chicago attorney, that Smith, who is at his home in Illinois, be excused until he recovers from his illness. Oscar Carlstrom, Illinois attorney general, joined in the request.

Heroic work on the part of a zoo keeper at Balboa park saved the life of a large tiger which was drowning in its cage. Seals were removed from their ponds and placed in a special enclosure.

Ryan aviation field near San Diego was one great lake. Twenty airplanes were standing with water covering their wings. Officials of the field said that if the old town dam breaks, the entire field equipment, valued at several hundred thousand dollars, would be destroyed.

Water was flowing in torrents down the main street of El Cajon, ten miles east of San Diego. Business was suspended.

Eighty seven aged inmates of the Edgemoor poor farm at Santee were brought to San Diego when rising water imperiled the farm site.

Fear was expressed in some quarters that the Hollywood dam above the movie city might give way under the extreme pressure of flood waters behind it. County authorities scouted the idea.

Several homes in Laurel Canyon, near Hollywood, were wrecked by flood waters rushing down from the hills.

Southern California towns along the coast were fighting against rising flood waters. More than 1,000 families deserted their homes and fled to higher ground.

Strength of the gale was described by six veteran seafarers who attempted to keep the pilot boat Adventure at her post outside the Golden Gate at San Francisco.

ARMY ACCIDENT, TERRIFIC CRASH AND 150 FT. DROP

ONE OF PLANES TOOK OFF AND
RAMMED ANOTHER
AMIDSHIP

ACCIDENT NEAR FORT WORTH
HAPPENED HOUR AFTER
ARMY MISHAP

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 17.—(UP)—A terrific collision in mid-air between two airplanes at Camp Stanley late yesterday resulted in the deaths of three army airmen, all of whom were killed instantly when the planes fell 150 feet to earth on the flying field.

The dead are First Lieut. Benedict A. Coyle, Canadian, of Kelly Field, San Antonio; Cadet John W. Green, 6515 North Maplewood Avenue, Chicago, and Private Rudolph C. Bartel, 6568 Hulbutt Ave., Detroit.

One of the planes was taking off at a terrific speed when it rammed the other amidship and both came down and were wrecked.

An hour later two civilian flyers were killed near Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 17.—Within an hour after three army flyers were killed in a mid-air collision at San Antonio, two civilian aviators fell to their deaths on the Winfield Scott ranch, 25 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

Quincy Burnett, 29, and James C. Cookins, 27, both of Fort Worth, are the dead. They had been visiting Winfield Scott at his ranch home and were taking off for the city when their plane crashed on the ranch, killing both of them instantly.

GERMANY EFFICIENT IN COMMERCIAL AVIATION LINES

New York, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Germany is surpassing other European countries and the United States in commercial aviation, Major George Robertson, European representative of the Lincoln Automobile company and in charge of the Ford aviation interests in Europe, said upon his arrival yesterday on the French liner France.

Plans are already under way, he said, for regular freight and passenger airplane service from Germany to South America and similar service to the United States is contemplated, though not so soon.

The route across the southern Atlantic will be from Bremen, to the Azores, to South America. The flight will be made in all-metal planes carrying 12 passengers and a quantity of freight. It would be made in two days.

17 YEAR OLD STUDENT TAKES PARIS GREEN

Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 17.—(UP)—To the growing list of student suicides the name of Clark Kessler, 17-year-old son of a local chemist, was added today.

Kessler's body was found in the All Saints church here after police had searched for the youth throughout the night. Beside the body were three boxes containing paris green, which Clark purchased at a drug store after he had left the high school where he was a junior, yesterday afternoon.

Elmira, N. Y., Feb. 17.—(UP)—Fear she was to be reprimanded because of a minor infraction of college rules, prompted Miss Edith M. Stewart, 23, of Tuxedo Park, to commit suicide by swallowing poison, friends said today.

Miss Stewart was a senior at Elmira college. Recently she obtained permission to leave the campus for a week-end so that she might visit a friend, but instead went to Ithaca, where Cornell university is situated. The deception was discovered and the girl faced possible suspension.

WORLD'S MEANEST MAN STOLE WOODEN LEG OF CRIPPLE

Minneapolis, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Armed with his crutches Charles Clark, who makes his home at the Wisconsin hotel here, took to the highways and by-ways today in search of the person who stole his wooden leg.

Thieves broke into Clark's room sometime during the night and worked so quietly the cripple was not aware of their presence.

The hunt was delayed because Clark's trousers were also pilfered and he was confined to his room until a new pair was provided him.

CONGRESS CHARTS ITS OWN COURSE IN LEGISLATION

DECLINED TO FOLLOW GUIDANCE
OF CHIEF EXECUTIVE

HOUSE SOMEWHAT RESPONSIVE,
SENATE DOWNRIGHT
PHLEGMATIC

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 17.—Although presidents usually have plenty of trouble with unruly congresses, Pres. Coolidge's difficulties for the short session now nearing a close, have been more extensive than ordinary.

Upon practically all important legislative problems, congress has charted its own course and declined to follow the chart of the chief executive.

The house has been only fairly responsive to presidential desires, but the senate has been downright phlegmatic in its usual senatorial way. A survey today showed two of the president's nominations have been turned down in the upper house and two administration treaties have been ditched.

There have been no spectacular breaks between the White House and congress, but the record shows congress has turned from the presidential program in the following matters:

Tax Reduction
The president's recommendation for temporary reduction relief on payments to be made in March went without action and the senate adopted a resolution, 52 to 28, recommending that the treasury surplus be used for debt settlement rather than tax reduction.

Naval Expansion
Mr. Coolidge's recommendation for delay in construction of authorized naval cruisers was ignored by the senate, 49 to 47, but was followed in the house, although Speaker Nick Longworth and republican leaders took the floor against it. The bill is now in conference where the differences between the two houses must be settled.

Farm Relief
Despite apparently authentic reports that Mr. Coolidge will veto the McNary-Haugen bill, the senate adopted the measure, 47 to 39, and defeated Secretary of Agriculture Jardine's plan, 32 to 54. The farm bloc bill is now nearing adoption in the house.

Foreign Policies
A resolution urging the president to arbitrate difficulties with Mexico was adopted by the Senate, 70 to 0, although republican leaders made plain that there were certain questions in the Mexican dispute Mr. Coolidge would never submit to arbitration. Although the government's Nicaraguan policies were sporadically criticized, the senate has refused to pass the Wheeler resolution urging Mr. Coolidge to withdraw marines there.

Treaties
The poison gas treaty which Mr. Coolidge sent to the senate was ditched by reference back to the foreign relations committee because it faced defeat and the Lausanne treaty with Turkey was killed by a record vote.

Nominations
The president's nomination of Cyrus Woods, Pennsylvania, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission was defeated 28 to 49. Mr. Coolidge, it was said, however, was not very much aroused by the action. Nomination of William H. Tilson, as federal judge of Georgia, was withdrawn when it faced defeat.

TAKES STOCK OF ITS LOSSES IN DEATHS, PROPERTY

WARNING OF ANOTHER APPROACHING GALE FROM WEATHER BUREAU

AT LEAST 24 KILLED IN SNOW SLIDES, PROPERTY LOSS AT LOS ANGELES $1,000,000

Southern California, winter playground of the nation, crept slowly out of the grip of the worst floods in its history today to take stock of its losses in deaths and property damage.

While sections of the southland, particularly around San Diego, were still endangered by rushing streams and continued rainfall, warning of another approaching gale came from the government weather bureau in San Francisco.

Highlights in the storm's toll to date included:

At least 24 killed in mountain snow slide, train wrecks, traffic accidents or drownings.

Property damage in the Los Angeles area alone estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Three thousand persons homeless, with other residences endangered and liable to be swept into swollen streams.

Twenty or more highway and railroad bridges washed out.

Railway service completely disrupted, with the exception of one line of the Southern Pacific.

The marine base at San Diego endangered by high waters.

Los Angeles has been swept by almost seven inches of rain to date, with more in prospect.

With bridges demolished, highways washed out, telephone and telegraph lines down, and entire sections of the southland inundated, every type of communication, with the possible exception of the radio, was shattered and will be crippled for days.

Efforts to resume transcontinental train travel from Los Angeles, which has been almost completely at a standstill, will be made today. Few trains have entered or departed for the east in the past 24 hours and traffic, both rail and highway, to the north and south, has been completely paralyzed.

Public utilities suffered an enormous damage from the storm, and employees of light, power and telephone companies battled with swollen streams and torrent-like rivers throughout the night and today to restore normal service.

In sections of the beach cities and in the lowlands of Los Angeles, hundreds of families were marooned by the floodwaters and rescued by police in rowboats. The Red Cross, Salvation Army, and other organizations have turned out in full strength and are administering help to the needy.

Dams in many sections of Los Angeles county were reaching capacity, but officials of the county flood control expressed belief that the peak of the high water had been reached and no fear is felt from that source.

Dry riverbeds that had been turned into raging cataclysms were beginning to fall and it was generally believed that unless more rain descends today, flooded areas will get relief from the flood waters.

San Diego, last to be hit by the cloudburst, was the last to emerge.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 17.—Following are highlights of the flood situation near San Diego today—the sixth day of the storm:

Hundreds battle to save 1870-built dyke at mouth of Mission valley, protecting marine base from flooding.

Three city reservoirs overflow. Pipe line break deprives Chula Vista from water.

Oceanside and Tijuana without lights. Tijuana isolated by break in international bridge.

All dams in San Diego county hold despite rumors of breaks.

Rail service to San Diego probably a week away.

Center of storm moves eastward, but rain continues here.

St. Paul, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Minnesota potato stocks are richer this year by more than 1,000,000 bushels when compared to a year ago, according to a report issued today by Paul H. Kirk, state agricultural statistician.

Growers and dealers throughout the state were said to have on hand 7,964,000 bushels of the tuber compared to 6,925,000 during 1926. Kirk pointed out, however, that stocks this year are half what they were two years ago.

For the nineteen surplus late states the report showed as of January 1, this year, 72,244,000 bushels in the hands of growers and local dealers, compared with 63,198,000 bushels Jan. 1, one year ago.

SMITH'S ILLNESS DELAYS INVESTIGATION

Washington, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Further investigation into the qualifications of Senator-designate Frank L. Smith was delayed indefinitely today because of Smith's illness.

The privileges and elections committee, making the investigation, acquiesced in a request from his counsel, Cornelius J. Doyle, Chicago attorney, that Smith, who is at his home in Illinois, be excused until he recovers from his illness. Oscar Carlstrom, Illinois attorney general, joined in the request.

Heroic work on the part of a zoo keeper at Balboa park saved the life of a large tiger which was drowning in its cage. Seals were removed from their ponds and placed in a special enclosure.

Ryan aviation field near San Diego was one great lake. Twenty airplanes were standing with water covering their wings. Officials of the field said that if the oldtown dam breaks, the entire field equipment, valued at several hundred thousand dollars, would be destroyed.

Water was flowing in torrents down the main street of El Cajon, ten miles east of San Diego. Business was suspended.

Eighty seven aged inmates of the Edgemoor poor farm at Santee were brought to San Diego when rising water imperiled the farm site.

Fear was expressed in some quarters that the Hollywood dam above the movie city might give way under the extreme pressure of flood waters behind it. County authorities scouted the idea.

Several homes in Laurel Canyon, near Hollywood, were wrecked by flood waters rushing down from the hills.

Southern California towns along the coast were fighting against rising flood waters. More than 1,000 families deserted their homes and fled to higher ground.

Strength of the gale was described by six veteran seafarers who attempted to keep the pilot boat Adventurers at her post outside the Golden Gate at San Francisco.

ARMY ACCIDENT, TERRIFIC CRASH AND 150 FT. DROP

ONE OF PLANES TOOK OFF AND
RAMMED ANOTHER
AMIDSHIP

ACCIDENT NEAR FORT WORTH
HAPPENED HOUR AFTER
ARMY MISHAP

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 17.—(UP)—A terrific collision in mid-air between two airplanes at Camp Stanley late yesterday resulted in the deaths of three army airmen, all of whom were killed instantly when the planes fell 150 feet to earth on the flying field.

The dead are First Lieut. Benedict A. Coyle, Canadian, of Kelly Field, San Antonio; Cadet John W. Green, 6515 North Maplewood Avenue, Chicago, and Private Rudolph C. Barlet, 6568 Hulbutt Ave., Detroit.

One of the planes was taking off at a terrific speed when it rammed the other amidship and both came down and were wrecked.

An hour later two civilian flyers were killed near Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 17.—Within an hour after three army flyers were killed in a mid-air collision at San Antonio, two civilian aviators fell to their deaths on the Winfield Scott ranch, 25 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

Quincy Burnett, 29, and James C. Coggins, 27, both of Fort Worth, are the dead. They had been visiting Winfield Scott at his ranch home and were taking off for the city when their plane crashed on the ranch, killing both of them instantly.

GERMANY EFFICIENT IN COMMERCIAL AVIATION LINES

New York, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Germany is surpassing other European countries and the United States in commercial aviation, Major George Robertson, European representative of the Lincoln Automobile company and in charge of the Ford aviation interests in Europe, said upon his arrival yesterday on the French liner France.

Plans are already under way, he said, for regular freight and passenger airplane service from Germany to South America and similar service to the United States is contemplated, though not so soon.

The route across the southern Atlantic will be from Bremen, to the Azores, to South America. The flight will be made in all-metal planes carrying 12 passengers and a quantity of freight. It would be made in two days.

17 YEAR OLD STUDENT TAKES PARIS GREEN

Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 17.—(UP)—To the growing list of student suicides the name of Clark Kessler, 17-year-old son of a local chemist, was added today.

Kessler's body was found in the All Saints church here after police had searched for the youth throughout the night. Beside the body were three boxes containing pills green, which Clark purchased at a drug store after he had left the high school where he was a junior, yesterday afternoon.

Elmira, N. Y., Feb. 17.—(UP)—Fear she was to be reprimanded because of a minor infraction of college rules, prompted Miss Edith M. Stewart, 23, of Tuxedo Park, to commit suicide by swallowing poison, friends said today.

Miss Stewart was a senior at Elmira college. Recently she obtained permission to leave the campus for a week-end so that she might visit a friend, but instead went to Ithaca, where Cornell university is situated. The deception was discovered and the girl faced possible suspension.

WORLD'S MEANEST MAN STOLE WOODEN LEG OF CRIPPLE

Minneapolis, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Armed with his crutches Charles Clark, who makes his home at the Wisconsin hotel here, took to the highways and by-ways today in search of the person who stole his wooden leg.

Thieves broke into Clark's room sometime during the night and worked so quietly the cripple was not aware of their presence.

The hunt was delayed because Clark's trousers were also pilfered and he was confined to his room until a new pair was provided him.

CONGRESS CHARTS ITS OWN COURSE IN LEGISLATION

DECLINED TO FOLLOW GUIDANCE
OF CHIEF EXECUTIVE

HOUSE SOMEWHAT RESPONSIVE,
SENATE DOWNRIGHT
PHLEGMATIC

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 17.—Although presidents usually have plenty of trouble with unruly congresses, President Coolidge's difficulties for the short session now nearing a close, have been more extensive than ordinary.

Upon practically all important legislative problems, congress has charted its own course and declined to follow the chart of the chief executive.

The house has been only fairly responsive to presidential desires, but the senate has been downright phlegmatic in its usual senatorial way. A survey today showed two of the president's nominations have been turned down in the upper house and two administration treaties have been ditched.

There have been no spectacular breaks between the White House and congress, but the record shows congress has turned from the presidential program in the following matters:

Tax Reduction
The president's recommendation for temporary reduction relief on payments to be made in March went without action and the senate adopted a resolution, 52 to 28, recommending that the treasury surplus be used for debt settlement rather than tax reduction.

Naval Expansion
Mr. Coolidge's recommendation for delay in construction of authorized naval cruisers was ignored by the senate, 49 to 47, but was followed in the house, although Speaker Nick Longworth and republican leaders took the floor against it. The bill is now in conference where the differences between the two houses must be settled.

Farm Relief
Despite apparently authentic reports that Mr. Coolidge will veto the McNary-Haugen bill, the senate adopted the measure, 47 to 39, and defeated the Secretary of Agriculture Jardine's plan, 32 to 54. The farm bloc bill is now nearing adoption in the house.

Foreign Policies
A resolution urging the president to arbitrate difficulties with Mexico was adopted by the Senate, 70 to 0, although republican leaders made plain that there were certain questions in the Mexican dispute Mr. Coolidge would never submit to arbitration. Although the government's Nicaraguan policies were sporadically criticized, the senate has refused to pass the Wheeler resolution urging Mr. Coolidge to withdraw marines there.

Treaties
The poison gas treaty which Mr. Coolidge sent to the senate was ditched by reference back to the foreign relations committee because it faced defeat and the Lauzanne treaty with Turkey was killed by a record vote.

Nominations
The president's nomination of Cyrus Woods, Pennsylvania, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission was defeated 28 to 49. Mr. Coolidge, it was said, however, was not very much aroused by the action. Nomination of William Tilson, as federal judge of Georgia, was withdrawn when it faced defeat.

TAKES STOCK OF ITS LOSSES IN DEATHS, PROPERTY

WARNING OF ANOTHER AP-PROACHING GALE FROM WEATHER BUREAU

AT LEAST 24 KILLED IN SNOW
SLIDES, PROPERTY LOSS AT
LOS ANGELES $1,000,000

Southern California, winter playground of the nation, crept slowly out of the grip of the worst floods in its history today to take stock of its losses in deaths and property damage.

While sections of the southland, particularly around San Diego, were still endangered by rushing streams and continued rainfall, warning of another approaching gale came from the government weather bureau in San Francisco.

Highlights in the storm's toll to date included:

At least 24 killed in mountain snow slide, train wrecks, traffic accidents or drownings.

Property damage in the Los Angeles area alone estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Three thousand persons homeless, with other residences endangered and liable to be swept into swollen streams.

Twenty or more highway and railroad bridges washed out.

Railway service completely disrupted, with the exception of one line of the Southern Pacific.

The marine base at San Diego endangered by high waters.

Los Angeles has been swept by almost seven inches of rain to date, with more in prospect.

With bridges demolished, highways washed out, telephone and telegraph lines down, and entire sections of the southland inundated, every type of communication, with the possible exception of the radio, was shattered and will be crippled for days.

Efforts to resume transcontinental train travel from Los Angeles, which has been almost completely at a standstill, will be made today. Few trains have entered or departed for the east in the past 24 hours and traffic, both rail and highway, to the north and south, has been completely paralyzed.

Public utilities suffered an enormous damage from the storm, and employees of light, power and telephone companies battled with swollen streams and torrent-like rivers throughout the night and today to restore normal service.

In sections of the beach cities and in the lowlands of Los Angeles, hundreds of families were marooned by the floodwaters and rescued by police in rowboats. The Red Cross, Salvation Army, and other organizations have turned out in full strength and are administering help to the needy.

Dams in many sections of Los Angeles county were reaching capacity, but officials of the county flood control expressed belief that the peak of the high water had been reached and no fear was felt from that source.

Dry riverbeds that had been turned into raging cataracts were beginning to fall and it was generally believed that unless more rain descends today, flooded areas will get relief from the flood waters.

San Diego, last to be hit by the cloudburst, was the last to emerge.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 17.—Following are highlights of the flood situation near San Diego today—the sixth day of the storm:

Hundreds battle to save 1870-built dyke at mouth of Mission valley, protecting marine base from flooding.

Three city reservoirs overflow. Pipe line break deprives Chula Vista from water.

Oceanside and Tijuana without lights. Tijuana isolated by break in international bridge.

All dams in San Diego county hold despite rumors of breaks.

Rail service to San Diego probably a week away.

Center of storm moves eastward, but rain continues here.

MISSION CIRCLE

Baptist Women Met at the Home of Mrs. A. E. Gustafson Wednesday Afternoon

Meeting at the home of Mrs. A. E. Gustafson, the Women's Mission Circle of the First Baptist church had a very interesting discussion Wednesday afternoon on conditions in the Moslem world. The meeting was led by Mrs. Henry Olson, and nearly all present took active part.

Mrs. R. E. Cody gave a brief resume of the life of Mohammed. After summing up the main events of his life she stated that from her study, no other conclusion was possible but that he was a self seeking impostor. While laying down iron clad rules for others, he himself was subject to none.

Mrs. Miriam Swanson gave a review of the "Legend of Kaaba," and the spread of Islamism. She pointed out that Mohammedanism constituted a serious menace to missionary work in Africa. It was pointed out that this religion is the only one that in the past has seriously menaced Christianity, and the only one which today is forestalling and gaining on Christianity.

Mrs. Walter Minske spoke on the five duties of the Moslem believer. She stated that the Mohammedan was forced to live under rule and law while the Christian is under Grace. "Mohammedanism as an organization is unparalleled among all other religions," she stated.

Mrs. Fred Grondin contrasted Christianity with Mohammedanism. She stated that Mohammedanism is man-made. Christianity is God-revealed. Mohammed said, "Islam or the sword." Jesus said, "By love, serve." Mohammedanism levels to a desert waste everything it touches, but Christianity in its effect is uplifting and purifying. The lot of women is always made better in its contact with Christianity. It is always degraded in its contact with the Moslem religion.

MISSION CIRCLE

Baptist Women Met at the Home of Mrs. A. E. Gustafson Wednesday Afternoon

Meeting at the home of Mrs. A. E. Gustafson, the Women's Mission Circle of the First Baptist church had a very interesting discussion Wednesday afternoon on conditions in the Moslem world. The meeting was led by Mrs. Henry Olson, and nearly all present took active part.

Mrs. R. E. Cody gave a brief resume of the life of Mohammed. After summing up the main events of his life she stated that from her study, no other conclusion was possible but that he was a self seeking impostor. While laying down iron clad rules for others, he himself was subject to none.

Mrs. Miriam Swanson gave a review of the "Legend of Kaaba," and the spread of Islamism. She pointed out that Mohammedanism constituted a serious menace to missionary work in Africa. It was pointed out that this religion is the only one that in the past has seriously menaced Christianity, and the only one which today is forestalling and gaining on Christianity.

Mrs. Walter Minske spoke on the five duties of the Moslem believer. She stated that the Mohammedan was forced to live under rule and law while the Christian is under Grace. "Mohammedanism as an organization is unparalleled among all other religions," she stated.

Mrs. Fred Grondin contrasted Christianity with Mohammedanism. She stated that Mohammedanism is man-made, Christianity is God-revealed. Mohammed said, "Islam or the sword;" Jesus said, "By love, serve." Mohammedanism levels to a desert waste everything it touches, but Christianity in its effect is uplifting and purifying. The lot of women is always made better in its contact with Christianity. It is always degraded in its contact with the Moslem religion.

CLEAR OUT RUTS AT INTERSECTIONS

Work Continues to Clear Out Street Ruts for Better Traffic

Ernest Ritari, Chairman of Street Committee Inspects Work

The work of clearing the ruts out of intersections of busy streets to allow better travel of automobiles continued today on Oak and Kingwood streets.

The Tyrol Wehr Fordson grader and scarifier rented to the city was put into good use. Ernest Ritari, chairman of the street committee this morning personally inspected the work as it progressed.

Authorization of the clearing of the ruts out of the streets at intersections was given by the city council at its last meeting. The ruts this winter have been troublesome to the automobile drivers who find them a great hindrance to driving.

BAND ENTHRALLS LARGE AUDIENCE

Brainerd Boys' Concert Band Gives a Splendid Program

DIRECTION OF E. A. PAGE

Complete Success From Musical, Artistic and Directing Standpoint

Resembling a large private ballroom, the U. C. T. auditorium, beautifully decorated, last night held one of the most interested, appreciative and large audiences of the current concert season when the Brainerd Boys' Concert band under the direction of E. A. Page presented its annual concert.

The curtain rang up on a scene that was both pleasing and inspiring. Thirty-eight young lads dressed in immaculate white uniforms, instruments gleaming beneath the lights and a swaying background of vari-colored streamers made a lasting first impression.

The entire program summed together was a pronounced success from a musical, artistic and directing standpoint. The music rendered was of the highest class and came as a surprise to some of the audience who had expected inferior and less difficult selections. The rendition of a selection from Tannhauser, alone, proved that the youthful players were on a par and above similar organizations in the state. The deep resounding bass tones of the piece were beautifully rendered, time was kept remarkably well and when the band played en masse in several strains of the selection the listeners sat entranced.

The "Sax Princess" gave the band a chance to display its accompaniment talents and did exceptionally well with Clarence Holden and Arden Miller as the saxophone soloists.

The march, "Radio Static" was directed by Elmer Peterson who performed like a professional.

Don Marshall, cornet soloist for "Twilight Dreams" received an ovation for his splendid interpretation.

The "Call of the Sea" was featured with a trombone solo by Leo Miller and Howard Gile, the mournful wailing notes of their instruments falling in with perfect harmony with the colorful melody.

"Moonlight on the Ganges" belongs to modern music and Jenkins, Marshall, Zapffe, Miller and Ellington gave the selection the finishing touch when their voices rang out in the chorus.

With the Oriental two step "Jungle Queen" the audience was transferred to desert scenes, the vast stretches of burning sands, a fresh oasis, the beating of tom toms, the characteristic, weird and minor key tones prevailing in the melody. Both pieces were well rendered.

The performance of "The Satellite" by Clay Smith was the outstanding feature of the evening. The cornet, one of the most difficult of band instruments was featured with Dale Sanders, truly an artist. Dale's tones came clear and strong in all instances his low and high notes ringing equally true and without effort. The band did excellent accompaniment work, in the difficult piece and received deserved applause.

"Old Kentucky Home" ever a favorite with any audience was made more appealing by the baritone solo of Carl Peterson. Another difficult instrument to master, Carl performed like a veteran, his tones high and clear, his air throughout the piece. The difficult variations never faltered and he was acclaimed by continuous applause.

The concert polka "Two Johns" was a bright and spirited thing, the booming and timekeeping of Stewart Gile's tuba coming in with Carl Zapffe's saxophone nearly played havoc with the feet of the audience.

The overture "North Pole" was characterized by volume, tuneful melody and a marvelous grand finale, expertly rendered.

During the intermission City Attorney D. H. Fullerton spoke on the rise of the band and outlined its progress from the time Prof. Pflock with the assistance of the Brainerd Lions club and Brainerd Musical club organized it three years ago. The organization now has 45 members with room for more. E. A. Page has directed it for the past two years and very much credit is due him for the interest he takes in the band and for the finished performance that was given last night.

The real purpose of the band is character building, to be educational, and as much should receive the hearty support of everybody. As to joining the organization, any boy may become a member, the fee is $1.00 a month or 25c a lesson as there are rehearsals once a week. Even this nominal sum has been taken care of as the public concerns that the boys have given pay for the tuition. Parents are asked to communicate with Mr. Page for further information. The band gave eight public concerts at Lum park last summer playing at the Fourth of July celebration and at other festivities. The band has always been willing to donate its services and has aided on many public occasions. If a law that is now up before the legislature is passed the city council will be enabled to aid the band financially which it has been unable to do in the past.

The final number, The Star Spangled Banner played in a patriotic and spirited manner successfully closed the many sessions of hard practice and rehearsal and regained anew the faith that Brainerd has in its ever up and coming Boys' Concert band.

INTERESTING LECTURES

Wallace L. Murphy and Ralph Blackett, Minneapolis Among Speakers

The Farm Engineers Association for the northern part of the state held their semi monthly convention this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms with 25 members present.

This midwinter meeting was brought to Brainerd by E. W. Nelson, Jamesway Farm Engineer in this section. He will further endeavor to bring the convention to Brainerd this summer.

Modern buildings and sanitation for farmsteads and the newer methods of dairying and poultry raising were taken up at the meeting.

Among the principal speakers were Wallace L. Murphy, Minneapolis, ventilation engineer who spoke on "Tuberculosis Eradication" and Ralph Blackett, Minneapolis, general contractor of up to date farmsteads.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Feb. 15, 1902

J. P. Anderson of Arnold's Grocery store left today for a short visit in Minneapolis.

Secretary Fred Farrar of the local Whist club thinks that there will be a good representation at the Whist tournament to be held in this city the latter part of next week. He has not heard definitely from many of the towns and cities but a few have been heard from.

The local club met last night in practice. It is not known who will compose the local team but a rather strong aggregation will be put in the field.

Dr. J. L. Camp left last night for St. Paul to join the other members of the commission appointed by Gov. S. R. Van Sant to report on a site for a proposed sanitarium for the cure of consumptives. The other members of the commission are Dr. H. L. Taylor, of St. Paul and Wadham of Warren.

Superintendent E. L. Brown at present superintendent of the Superior division of the Northern Pacific has tendered his resignation to take effect March 1.

W. H. Rosenkranz, a prominent farmer living 10 miles east of the city was in the city yesterday and is much interested in the proposed telephone line to the Mille Lacs Lake country. He stated that he did not know definitely the route that had been suggested but said that if it would come his way he would furnish poles and set them up for two miles.

Use Only Serviceable Materials in the Sun Room

By A. Louise Fillebrown

NEXT to the breakfast room and kitchen the sunroom needs washable and fadeless materials to be practical. The streaming sunlight that enters all day will fade anything that cannot resist it, the constant washing that is necessary will wear out anything that is not made to wash easily. The many windows allow much more dirt to enter here than any other room in the house, and the constant use that is given this cheery place by all the family wears out all but the most serviceable materials.

For all these reasons it is wise therefore to buy a good quality of wallpaper as your chief element of decoration and after it is hung to varnish it. The colors in a good paper are able to withstand the sun and the varnished surface may be washed and washed without wearing down or peeling off. The varnish besides making the paper waterproof makes it adhere much more firmly to the walls, and so withstand both heat and dampness.

The sunroom illustrated is full of color and cheer, the paper is gay orange, green and cream with bits of black. The black floor is linoleum with orange and green rugs of woven grass spread upon it. The wicker furniture is painted green and the black and vermilion birdcages with their brilliant feathered occupants add the last touch of summery brightness and lovely color. It is a pleasant place to spend one time, and added to that is the satisfaction that it will not soon have to be torn up and re-furnished.

OLD RECORDS THAT TELL OF AIRPLANE

Revelations in Ancient Irish Manuscript.

Some of the most thrilling results which have been brought to light in the deciphering of ancient manuscripts in the various libraries of Europe, Great Britain, and Ireland are those which contain romantic stories which indicate a foreshadowing of discoveries which we look upon as altogether the result of material development pertaining to the present era, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor.

One of the most curious of these is the tale of the appearance of an airplane, the account of which was written between the years 944 and 956 A. D. in the reign of an Irish king named Congalach. The authenticity of the date of the manuscript is beyond question, and the description is as follows:

Congalach reigned in Meath, and was evidently given to farming pursuits, for the story goes on to tell of his one day attending a fair at a place now called Telitown, on the Meath blackwater, midway between the towns of Navan and Kells. While he was inspecting horses, for which that county is famous, a sound in the sky caused him, and all the people, to look up, and they beheld a large ship floating far above them.

It appeared to be fully equipped with a numerous, and evidently intelligent crew. After a time, in which the people in the fair gazed in silent wonder at the phenomenon, the huge vessel gradually floated toward some clouds into which it entered, and the awe-struck crowds saw it no more. This strange story is told with slight variations by the Norse documents, named Kongs Skugglo.

Yet another tale is told in one of these Irish legends, in which the writer prophesies that a time would come when carriages without horses would run through the streets of Jerusalem. These stories are, of course, mere legends of imagination but it is interesting to find them noted in documents of undoubted antiquity, and in local as well as in ancient runes and sagas; also that such shadows of the actualities of the Twentieth century should have emanated from the thoughts of people in the Tenth.

It would be interesting to understand the mental capacities, and the outlook of the persons who inspired such tales; and who thought them of sufficient importance to have them recorded on vellum.

Warmth and Smartness Features of This Coat

This chic sport coat, which Irene Rich, film player, wears in "Don't Tell the Wife," is a charming combination of warmth closely resembling giraffe skin, and cut in a straight line, with cuffs, large collar and wide band down the front in natural beaver. The coat fastens together with two buttons.

Good Health Comes From

Food, Exercise and Rest

Has it ever occurred to you that your health and your ability to play ball are quite two different things?

Your health comes from the right food and exercise and rest, and the proper balance between all three, writes Dr. A. H. Sutherland in the American Boy Magazine. But your ability to play baseball or tennis, or even your ability to walk and balance, and put out your hand to touch an object accurately instead of groping for it as a baby does, is all a matter of training.

You have to learn to use your eyes and ears and feet and fingers accurately just as definitely as you have to learn arithmetic or spelling.

BAND ENTHRALLS LARGE AUDIENCE

Brainerd Boys' Concert Band Gives a Splendid Program

DIRECTION OF E. A. PAGE

Complete Success From Musical, Artistic and Directing Standpoint

Resembling a large private ballroom, the U. C. T. auditorium, beautifully decorated, last night held one of the most, interested, appreciative and large audiences of the current concert season when the Brainerd Boys' Concert band under the direction of E. A. Page presented its annual concert.

The curtain rang up on a scene that was both pleasing and inspiring. Thirty-eight young lads dressed in immaculate white uniforms, instruments gleaming beneath the lights and a swaying background of vari-colored streamers made a lasting first impression.

The entire program summed together was a pronounced success from a musical, artistic and directing standpoint. The music rendered was of the highest class and came as a surprise to some of the audience who had expected inferior and less difficult selections. The rendition of a selection from Tannhauser, alone, proved that the youthful players were on a par and above similar organizations in the state. The deep resounding bass tones of the piece were beautifully rendered, time was kept remarkably well and when the band played en masse in several strains of the selection the listeners sat entranced.

The "Sax Princess" gave the band a chance to display its accompaniment talents and did exceptionally well with Clarence Holden and Arden Miller as the saxophone soloists.

The march, "Radio Static" was directed by Elmer Peterson who performed like a professional.

Don Marshall, cornet soloist for "Twilight Dreams" received an ovation for his splendid interpretation.

The "Call of the Sea" was featured with a trombone solo by Leo Miller and Howard Gile, the mournful wailing notes of their instruments falling in with perfect harmony with the colorful melody.

"Moonlight on the Ganges" belongs to modern music and Jenkins, Marshall, Zapffe, Miller and Ellingson gave the selection the finishing touch when their voices rang out in the chorus.

With the Oriental two step "Jungle Queen" the audience was transferred to desert scenes, the vast stretches of burning sands, a fresh oasis, the beating of tom toms, the characteristic, weird and minor key tones prevailing in the melody. Both pieces were well rendered.

The performance of "The Satellite" by Clay Smith was the outstanding feature of the evening. The cornet, one of the most difficult of band instruments was featured with Dale Sanders, truly an artist. Dale's tones came clear and strong in all instances his low and high notes ringing equally true and without effort. The band did excellent accompaniment work, in the difficult piece and received deserved applause.

"Old Kentucky Home" ever a favorite with any audience was made more appealing by the baritone solo of Carl Peterson. Another difficult instrument to master, Carl performed like a veteran, his tones high flawless carried the air throughout the piece. The difficult variations never faltered and he was acclaimed by continuous applause.

The concert polka "Two Johns" was a bright and spirited thing, the booming and timekeeping of Stewart Gile's tuba coming in with Carl Zapffe's saxophone nearly played havoc with the feet of the audience.

The overture "North Pole" was characterized by volume, tuneful melody and a marvelous grand finale, expertly rendered.

During the intermission City Attorney D. H. Fullerton spoke on the rise of the band and outlined its progress from the time Prof. Pflock with the assistance of the Brainerd Lions club and Brainerd Musical club organized it three years ago. The organization now has 45 members with room for more. E. A. Page has directed it for the past two years and very much credit is due him for the interest he takes in the band and for the finished performance that was given last night. "The real purpose of the band is character building, to be educational, and as much should receive the hearty support of everybody. As to joining the organization, any boy may become a member, the fee is $1.00 a month or 25c a lesson as there are rehearsals once a week. Even this nominal sum has been taken care of as the public concerts that the boys have given pay for the tuition. Parents are asked to communicate with Mr. Page for further information. The band gave eight public concerts at Lum park last summer playing at the Fourth of July celebration and at other festivities. The band has always been willing to donate its services and has aided on many public occasions. If a law that is now up before the legislature is passed the city council will be enabled to aid the band financially which it has been unable to do in the past.

The final number, The Star Spangled Banner played in a patriotic and spirited manner successfully closed the many sessions of hard practice and rehearsal and regained anew the faith that Brainerd has in its ever up and coming Boys' Concert band.

FARM ENGINEERS HOLD CONVENTION

25 in Attendance This Afternoon at Session at Chamber of Commerce

INTERESTING LECTURES

Wallace L. Murphy and Ralph Blacketin, Minneapolis Among Speakers

The Farm Engineers Association for the northern part of the state held their semi monthly convention this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms with 25 members present.

This midwinter meeting was brought to Brainerd by E. W. Nelson, Jamesway Farm Engineer in this section. He will further endeavor to bring the convention to Brainerd this summer.

Modern buildings and sanitation for farmsteads and the newer methods of dairying and poultry raising were taken up at the meeting.

Among the principal speakers were Wallace L. Murphy, Minneapolis, ventilation engineer who spoke on "Tuberculosis Eradication" and Ralph Blacketin, Minneapolis, general contractor of up to date farmsteads.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Feb. 15, 1902

J. P. Anderson of Arnold's Grocery store left today for a short visit in Minneapolis.

Secretary Fred Farrar of the local Whist club thinks that there will be a good representation at the Whist tournament to be held in this city the latter part of next week. He has not heard definitely from many of the towns and cities but a few have been heard from.

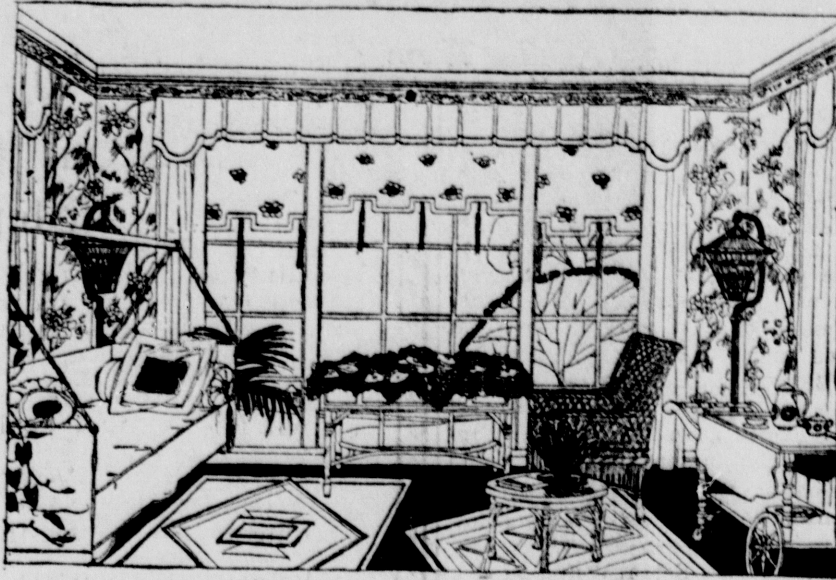

The local club met last night in practice. It is not known who will compose the local team but a rather strong aggregation will be put in the field.

Dr. J. L. Camp left last night for St. Paul to join the other members of the commission appointed by Gov. S. R. Van Sant to report on a site for a proposed sanitarium for the cure of consumptives. The other members of the commission are Dr. H. L. Taylor, of St. Paul and Wadham of Warren.

Superintendent E. L. Brown at present superintendent of the Superior division of the Northern Pacific has tendered his resignation to take effect March 1.

W. H. Rosenkranz, a prominent farmer living 10 miles east of the city was in the city yesterday and is much interested in the proposed telephone line to the Mille Lacs Lake country. He stated that he did not know definitely the route that had been suggested but said that if it would come his way he would furnish poles and set them up for two miles.

Use Only Serviceable Materials in the Sun Room

By A. Louise Fillebrown

NEXT to the breakfast room and kitchen the sunroom needs washable and fadeless materials to be practical. The streaming sunlight that enters all day will fade anything that cannot resist it, the constant washing that is necessary will wear out anything that is not made to wash easily. The many windows allow much more dirt to enter here than any other room in the house, and the constant use that is given this cheery place by all the family wears out all but the most serviceable materials.

For all these reasons it is wise therefore to buy a good quality of wallpaper as your chief element of decoration and after it is hung to varnish it. The colors in a good paper are able to withstand the sun and the varnished surface may be washed and washed without wearing down or peeling off. The varnish besides making the paper waterproof makes it adhere much more firmly to the walls, and so withstand both heat and dampness.

The sunroom illustrated is full of color and cheer, the paper is gay orange, green and cream with bits of black. The black floor is linoleum with orange and green rugs of woven grass spread upon it. The wicker furniture is painted green and the black and vermilion birdcages with their brilliant feathered occupants add the last touch of summery brightness and lovely color. It is a pleasant place to spend ones time, and added to that is the satisfaction that it will not soon have to be torn up and refurnished.

OLD RECORDS THAT TELL OF AIRPLANE

Revelations in Ancient Irish Manuscript.

Some of the most thrilling results which have been brought to light in the deciphering of ancient manuscripts in the various libraries of Europe, Great Britain, and Ireland are those which contain romantic stories which indicate a foreshadowing of discoveries which we look upon as altogether the result of material development pertaining to the present era, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor.

One of the most curious of these is the tale of the appearance of an airplane, the account of which was written between the years 944 and 956 A. D. in the reign of an Irish king named Congalach. The authenticity of the date of the manuscript is beyond question, and the description is as follows:

Congalach reigned in Meath, and was evidently given to farming pursuits, for the story goes on to tell of his one day attending a fair at a place now called Telltown, on the Meath blackwater, midway between the towns of Navan and Kells. While he was inspecting horses, for which that county is famous, a sound in the sky caught him, and all the people, to look up, and they beheld a large ship floating far above them.

It appeared to be fully equipped with a numerous, and evidently intelligent crew. After a time, in which the people in the fair gazed in silent wonder at the phenomenon, the huge vessel gradually floated toward some clouds into which it entered, and the awe-struck crowds saw it no more. This same story is told with slight variations by the Norse documents, named Kongs Skuggio.

Yet another tale is told in one of these Irish legends, in which the writer prophesies that a time would come when carriages without horses would run through the streets of Jerusalem.

These stories are, of course, mere legends of imagination but it is interesting to find them noted in documents of undoubted antiquity, and in local as well as in ancient runes and sagas; also that such shadows of the actualities of the Twentieth century should have emanated from the thoughts of people in the Tenth.

It would be interesting to understand the mental capacities, and the outlook of the persons who inspired such tales; and who thought them of sufficient importance to have them recorded on vellum.

Good Health Comes From Food, Exercise and Rest

Has it ever occurred to you that your health and your ability to play ball are quite two different things?

Your health comes from the right food and exercise and rest, and the proper balance between all three, writes Dr. A. H. Sutherland in the American Boy Magazine. But your ability to play baseball or tennis, or even your ability to walk and balance, and put out your hand to touch an object accurately instead of groping for it as a baby does, is all a matter of training.

You have to learn to use your eyes and ears and feet and fingers accurately just as definitely as you have to learn arithmetic or spelling.

AN EDUCATION THAT HELPS A MAN EARN A LIVING

A CONTRAST between the older, "academic" type of college education and the modern, more industrialized type is drawn by an editorial in this week's Liberty.

"In our older educational institutions," the editorial points out, "the idea that anything of practical use is outside of education still persists. One famous Harvard professor, in his annual farewell to his seniors, used to say: 'Young gentlemen, I hope that nothing I have taught you during our association will ever be instrumental in aiding you to earn even a penny.'

"Contrast this with some mid-western schools," the editorial continues. "This writer recently visited one of the State Universities and found more than 3,500 boys and girls in freshman chemistry. An instructor took him through the laboratories. 'These,' he said, indicating a department where three or four hundred students were at work, 'are working on steel. And these are working on rubber.'

"There was no talk," the editorial goes on, "of hoping none of them ever would make a cent out of what they learned at college. On the other hand, the steel mills, the factories, and the electrical corporations have standing bids for promising graduates. There are those who hold that such an attitude may make a boy less a 'gentleman', but more a man. Someone might tell the assembled professors that, regardless of what education is, a white-collar education doesn't amount to much unless it includes making enough money to keep the collars white."

THE POTATO SITUATION

THE other day J. G. Dawes gave us his observations on the potato market for this year and he dwelt on the fact that we have stocks on hand and will also be faced this year with increased acreage of the south and competing states. Some of his observations are already being borne out by government reports.

For instance in today's Brainerd Dispatch we carry a report from State Agricultural Statistician Paul H. Kirk that Minnesota potato stocks are richer this year by more than 1,000,000 bushels when compared to a year ago.

With surplus stocks on hand, with new potato country competing with ours, it does make the matter of how much to plant in our state a subject of deep study. If we raise a bumper crop and flood the markets, we help to depress our own market, and in addition have to compete with the other potato states.

It is not flying in the face of Providence, nor trying to defeat the law of supply and demand, nor any economic or philosophical altruism or whatever you may call it, but it's plain good common sense for Minnesota farmers to figure out how much to plant. Of course, too, every farmer must take into consideration possible weather conditions. A bad season will reduce a big crop and almost make negligible a small crop.

AMERICAN HOME LIFE

THE Seattle Star has a short editorial on American home life. Let's just look into this. American home life in the summer time is a scattered and scrambled institution. Pa is out playing golf or fishing. Ma also has a lot of social duties. One or more of the children are using the car.

The old homestead is there, but it's seldom occupied at one time except probably at meal time.

Pa, probably, is the only steady institution associated with any home. He grinds away at the shops or office, reports regularly for his meals. American home life faces a lot of competition when it faces automobiles, fishing and other outdoor recreation, the movies and other attractions.

We remember, one time, motoring through the Minnetonka region of wonderful homes. Doors were ajar, some servants were around, but otherwise everybody "at home" was every place except at home. The home was a show place, it is true, but no one seemed to occupy it during the daytime, at least.

MINNESOTA EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION

THE sixty-first annual convention of the Minnesota Editorial Association will be held this year at St. Paul on Friday and Saturday, February 18 and 19. The program this year will be a well rounded one.

Here are some of the good things in store: "How the Clipping Bureau Helps the Newspaper," by Robert L. Pollock, of Pollock's Newspaper News; "Can the Second Generation Carry On?" by Theodore Burgess, of the Wheaton Gazette; "Newspaper Laws We Have, Should Have and Shouldn't Have," by August Erickson, of the Springfield Advance; "Newspaper Production Costs," by W. H. Bridgman, of the Stanley, Wis., Republican; "Western Wisconsin Co-operates," by Dick Pugh, of the Luck Enterprise; an address by Mrs. Howard Bratton of the Fairbault Daily News, and many other live features.

The outstanding feature of the whole affair will be the report of Field Secretary Sam S. Haislet. This man is doing much to help the newspaper folks of Minnesota.

Dunwoody Institute extends an invitation to the newspaper people to visit and inspect the institution.

Mrs. O. A. NAELIN of Thief River Falls is the first woman senator to take a seat in the Minnesota legislature. She does not come to her task timidly or inexperienced. In her girlhood days she was a successful teacher and a woman who can do that has no difficulty in asserting herself in any legislature. She succeeds her husband in the legislature. She assisted him in his campaign and his work after election and voters think she knows as much of the territory she represents as did her husband. Her career will be watched with interest and we wish her all possible success.

ST. CLOUD people have the idea that Charles R. Hutcheson, or "Hutch" as he is known, is the one and only, simon pure, apostle of alfalfa. Up in this end of the state, it's not "Hutch", but Ernie Roth that wears the mantle of alfalfa king, aided by the Lions club, Chamber of Commerce, banks, Rotarians and every other agency looking to the increasing welfare of Crow Wing county farmers.

WHEN Frank Day, senator of Fairmont, states his position, there is no question of what he stands for and where he may be found. Frank has a command of picturesque language which carries his point.

Edith's Unusual Inheritance

By RUBY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

WHEN Edith Martin's bachelor uncle died and bequeathed to her the nearly three thousand books of his library instead of a few thousands of his dollars, she sat down in a corner of her room and cried.

"What in the world can I do with three thousand books?" she asked herself, over and over again. "And added to my own five or six hundred volumes—dear, oh, dear!"

A relative who rather envied her the possession of so fine and varied a library, remarked, with apparent casualness, that it was a pity the books were to be in hands that could do so little with them.

Edith's eyes had flashed fire at the remark but, true to the self-discipline that she had acquired, she held her tongue. But—there were no more stupid, useless tears over her legacy.

It took time and effort to formulate her plans even after the inspiration she sought had come to her. The library was catalogued and in having it moved she found a great deal of material that she could not—and some that she would not—use for her new enterprise. Therefore, all books that she considered available had to be placed and arranged on the new shelves she had had built in the great old-fashioned living room of her father's home. She had made it into a most attractive studio-library with her own desk tucked into an alcove and the windows subtly curtained with a fabric that made all light from out of doors seem like sunlight.

In these surroundings, Edith established a sort of library that she felt there was a need of in her community. She selected books for people who could not get out. She had a telephone and mail service to which she attended personally and with the assistance of schoolgirls she delivered books and called for them. The charge was nominal but the advantage of being a member of this library was that your books were selected for you with a personal understanding of your taste. Edith conducted a circulating library, also, on the usual plan, but the main feature of her work was the attention to those who could not get about to choose their own reading matter. She made arrangements with a publishing house to let her have books at cost and by letting them out ten or twelve times they soon more than paid for themselves.

Once a year she planned to have a rummage sale of much-used books and at this sale she arranged to give employment to two old maiden ladies to whom she had suggested a plan. They were to be present at the sale to offer to cover the old books for those who bought them, in any kind of cretonne that might tone in with their decorations. Altogether, Edith found herself suddenly very busy, very happy and very successful in her newly found work, and every night she was thankful that she had discovered a use for her legacy.

Warner Dickson dealt in rare books and he had made more than one visit to Edith's attractive library to try to buy some of her good volumes. She refused to sell her precious editions for, always, she had been a book-lover herself and now that she did not need to sell them, she would not.

"Books have always meant so much to me," he was telling her one afternoon, at twilight, "that a romantic fancy has possessed me all through my life that one day I should find my greatest happiness through them—and their contacts."

"You knew my Uncle John?" she asked.

Dickson nodded. "Yes. He had gathered his books about him from everywhere and often, because of his wealth, he was able to buy the very books I was trying to get. Needless to say—I envied him."

"And now," laughed Edith, "you are trying to get them away from me!"

"Oh—only as a matter of business. I did not even know you the first time I called. Now, did I?"

Edith continued to smile. "Who says you do now?" she asked, lightly.

The man was silent, a trifle hurt. He wondered if she suspected him of trying to get her books away from her by this more than friendly attitude, this frequent visiting?

"Miss Martin—"

"Now—that's nice. It sounds like a perfectly proper school teacher or librarian."

He was annoyed. But he went on. "You have never asked me to come to see you, in a friendly way, and so, in order to be with you at all, I have to pretend a sustained interest, a vain hope, that by persistence I may get possession of those rare volumes."

"Oh—and if I should ask you to come to see me out of library hours, so to speak, you would still come?" she asked, naively.

"Try me," he retorted, boyishly.

With so vivid a common interest, so broad a meeting ground and temperaments that seemed to be harmonious from the very beginning, it was not surprising that Warner Dickson and Edith soon discovered their love for each other.

And instead of being a detriment to the success of the library, their partnership only made it a greater institution for they worked together for the same common cause—that of spreading good literature into fields where it was almost inaccessible.

REAL "CLASSICS" IN PROSE AND POETRY

Qualities That Render Them Immortal.

In literature the word classic was originally limited to Greek and Latin prose and poetry. It has now come to mean any piece of literature whose quality is such that it has survived for fifty or a hundred years and is by common consent regarded as so good as to be permanent. A literary classic should possess one or in of the following qualities:

1. It should reflect the mode of thought and the customs and manners of its time.

The travels of Herodotus, the dialogues of Socrates, and the novels of Jane Austen are examples.

2. It should be written in a beautiful and striking style.

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech is an example.

3. It should spring from and appeal to a cultivated imagination.

The poems of Keats are an example.

4. It should be a contribution to the thought of the world and should stimulate the thought of the world.

The essays of Ralph Waldo Emerson are an example.

5. It should possess a universal human interest and express all phases of human experience.

The Old Testament and Shakespeare's plays are examples.

No one generation can determine what classics it is producing. The final judgment must and will be pronounced by succeeding generations. Walt Whitman and Lincoln were looked on with contempt by many of their most highly educated contemporaries. And yet Whitman's "O Captain! My Captain!" and Lincoln's Gettysburg speech will live as long as the English language lives.

Nor does a classic have to be "high-brow stuff." If it is a genuine intelligent and witty picture of a certain aspect of society, even a "best-seller" may become a classic; although I am bound to say that most of our modern best-sellers have very little chance of achieving this immortality. The "Pickwick Papers," the "Biblow Papers," and "Night With Uncle Remus" were all best-sellers and are all classics. I hope I shall shock nobody by saying that I think "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" is more likely to become a classic than many contemporary novels or stories that are much more pretentious. Artificial and pretentious writing never makes a classic. Sincerity, simplicity and spontaneity are qualities that every true classic—whether in music, painting, prose or poetry—possesses; all others pretending to the titles are counterfeits. Let nobody hoodwink you into supposing that the classics are pompous, stilted, and boring. If they were, nobody would read them—not even your teachers and professors.—Lawrence F. Abbot, in the Outlook.

Plant Societies

The science of botany has been greatly advanced by the development of what may be called the sociology of plants—that is, the study of their relations to one another as well as their adjustments to surroundings. Botanists recognize that plants are not scattered haphazard over the globe, but are organized into definite communities. A pond has its plant society, all the members of which fall into their proper places. A swamp forest consists of trees possessing a certain social relationship and differing from those that form a forest on dry land. There is progression from one social organization of plants to another. A lily pond may give place to a swamp moor, this to a society of swamp shrubs, and this again to a swamp forest of tamarack, pine and hemlock. So societies of plants on dry land succeed one another as the conditions change.

Two Schools of Thought

Fundamentalists believe that the canon of the Scriptures is closed and that revelations are not now made. They also affirm belief in the miraculous happenings which are related in the Scriptures; that they are of divine origin and that the Bible was written through divine inspiration and is not subject to modern interpretation. Modernists believe that revelations are still being made and that it is quite possible according to developments of modern science to account for the so-called miraculous happenings in the Bible. They do not accept such doctrines as that of the virgin birth without question.—Washington Star.

Egg for Radiator

Does your radiator leak? Try white of egg—an old farmer's remedy, which several motorists have used with success. The theory is that after the white of egg is poured into the radiator the hot water carries it to the leak and cooks it there until it becomes virtually hard boiled. The remedy has lasted in some cases for two or three years at a stretch, indicating that the egg does not rot even in that length of time, or else attracts enough sediment to keep the hole plugged up.

Not a Farmerette

Little two-year-old Anita went to the country to visit her grandparents and was taken out to the rabbitry to see the New Zealand Red rabbits. When she saw the red rabbits, her eyes fairly danced and reaching out her little hands and beckoning with her fingers, she exclaimed, "Come on, little cows. Come on, little cows."

Successful Book Thief

Fortunately for our literary treasures, dishonesty among librarians is extremely rare, but the arrest of the curator of a Paris library for trying to sell a valuable Thirteenth-century MS. in his charge to a London bookseller recalls the depredations of the most successful book thief on record—Count Guglielmo Libri, for many years inspector general of public libraries in France. In the course of his visits of inspection Libri contrived to remove from the various collections a remarkable number of valuable books and manuscripts, and before discovery managed to accumulate some $200,000 by the sale of his plunder. In 1848 a warrant was issued for his arrest, but he had friends at court and was enabled to escape to England, where he lived very comfortably for many years on the proceeds of his stolen treasures.

Providing Beauty

It is delightful to have something done without regard to the returns to the doer, to have something spontaneous, ample, gloriously useless; thousands spent for the mere pleasure of spending it on others; to have the savings of years bottled in a flask, and then pour it forth on feet and head . . . and then break the flask. To some it seems like a criminal waste to put all the skill and labor of a lifetime on a few feet of canvas, while the painter can scarcely get bread, and then give that canvas to the world. But it will impart pleasure to thousands. . . . Pour out your money on the beautiful. Encourage the workers in the beautiful. . . . You who are rich ought to provide the beautiful for yourselves and for the poor.—Charles E. Deems, in "Religion in Beauty."

How Children Quickly Gain Robust Health

For weak, puny, inactive children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date pharmacists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, with their wealth of vitamins.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at H. P. Dunn's, C. D. Johnson's and druggists everywhere. Try them for 30 days and if you are not happily satisfied with the test get your money back. But demand McCoy's—it pays to get the genuine. —Advt.

AN EDUCATION THAT HELPS A MAN EARN A LIVING

A CONTRAST between the older, "academic" type of college education and the modern, more industrialized type is drawn by an editorial in this week's Liberty.

"In our older educational institutions," the editorial points out, "the idea that anything of practical use is outside of education still persists. One famous Harvard professor, in his annual farewell to his seniors, used to say: 'Young gentlemen, I hope that nothing I have taught you during our association will ever be instrumental in aiding you to earn even a penny.'"

"Contrast this with some mid-western schools," the editorial continues. "This writer recently visited one of the State Universities and found more than 3,500 boys and girls in freshman chemistry. An instructor took him through the laboratories. 'These,' he said, indicating a department where three or four hundred students were at work, 'are working on steel. And these are working on rubber.'"

"There was no talk," the editorial goes on, "of hoping none of them ever would make a cent out of what they learned" at college. On the other hand, the steel mills, the factories, and the electrical corporations have standing bids for promising graduates. There are those who hold that such an attitude may make a boy less a "gentleman," but more a man. Someone might tell the assembled professors that, regardless of what education is, a white-collar education doesn't amount to much unless it includes making enough money to keep the collars white."

THE POTATO SITUATION

THE other day J. G. Dawes gave us his observations on the potato market for this year and he dwelt on the fact that we have stocks on hand and will also be faced this year with increased acreage of the south and competing states. Some of his observations are already being borne out by government reports.

For instance in today's Brainerd Dispatch we carry a report from State Agricultural Statistician Paul H. Kirk that Minnesota potato stocks are richer this year by more than 1,000,000 bushels when compared to a year ago.

With surplus stocks on hand, with new potato country competing with ours, it does make the matter of how much to plant in our state a subject of deep study. If we raise a bumper crop and flood the markets, we help to depress our own market, and in addition have to compete with the other potato states.

It is not flying in the face of Providence, nor trying to defeat the law of supply and demand, nor any economic or philosophical altruism or whatever you may call it, but it's plain good common sense for Minnesota farmers to figure out how much to plant. Of course, too, every farmer must take into consideration possible weather conditions. A bad season will reduce a big crop and almost make negligible a small crop.

AMERICAN HOME LIFE

THE Seattle Star has a short editorial on American home life. Let's just look into this. American home life in the summer time is a scattered and scrambled institution. Pa is out playing golf or fishing. Ma also has a lot of social duties. One or more of the children are using the car.

The old homestead is there, but it's seldom occupied at one time except probably at meal time.

Pa, probably, is the only steady institution associated with any home. He grinds away at the shops or office, reports regularly for his meals. American home life faces a lot of competition when it faces automobiles, fishing and other outdoor recreation, the movies and other attractions.

We remember, one time, motoring through the Minnetonka region of wonderful homes. Doors were ajar, some servants were around, but otherwise everybody "at home" was every place except at home. The home was a show place, it is true, but no one seemed to occupy it during the daytime, at least.

MINNESOTA EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION

THE sixty-first annual convention of the Minnesota Editorial Association will be held this year at St. Paul on Friday and Saturday, February 18 and 19. The program this year will be a well rounded one.

Here are some of the good things in store: "How the Clipping Bureau Helps the Newspaper," by Robert L. Pollock, of Pollock's Newspaper News; "Can the Second Generation Carry On?" by Theodore Burgess, of the Wheaton Gazette; "Newspaper Laws We Have, Should Have and Shouldn't Have," by August Erickson, of the Springfield Advance; "Newspaper Production Costs," by W. H. Bridgman, of the Stanley, Wis., Republican; "Western Wisconsin Co-operates," by Dick Pugh, of the Luck Enterprise; an address by Mrs. Howard Bratton of the Faribault Daily News, and many other live features.

The outstanding feature of the whole affair will be the report of Field Secretary Sam S. Haislet. This man is doing much to help the newspaper folks of Minnesota.

Dunwoody Institute extends an invitation to the newspaper people to visit and inspect the institution.

Mrs. O. A. NAELIN of Thief River Falls is the first woman senator to take a seat in the Minnesota legislature. She does not come to her task timidly or inexperienced. In her girlhood days she was a successful teacher and a woman who can do that has no difficulty in asserting herself in any legislature. She succeeds her husband in the legislature. She assisted him in his campaign and his work after election and voters think she knows as much of the territory she represents as did her husband. Her career will be watched with interest and we wish her all possible success.

ST. CLOUD people have the idea that Charles R. Hutcheson, or "Hutch" as he is known, is the one and only, simon pure, apostle of alfalfa. Up in this end of the state, it's not "Hutch", but Ernie Roth that wears the mantle of alfalfa king, aided by the Lions club, Chamber of Commerce, banks, Rotarians and every other agency looking to the increasing welfare of Crow Wing county farmers.

WHEN Frank Day, senator of Fairmont, states his position, there is no question of what he stands for and where he may be found. Frank has a command of picturesque language which carries his point.

Edith's Unusual Inheritance

By RUBY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

WHEN Edith Martin's bachelor uncle died and bequeathed to her the nearly three thousand books of his library instead of a few thousands of his dollars, she sat down in a corner of her room and cried.

"What in the world can I do with three thousand books?" she asked herself, over and over again. "And, added to my own five or six hundred volumes—dear, oh, dear!"

A relative who rather envied her the possession of so fine and varied a library, remarked, with apparent casualness, that it was a pity the books were to be in hands that could do so little with them.

Edith's eyes had flashed fire at the remark but, true to the self-discipline that she had acquired, she held her tongue. But—there were no more stupid, useless tears over her legacy.

It took time and effort to formulate her plans even after the inspiration she sought had come to her. The library was catalogued but in having it moved she found a great deal of material that she could not—and some that she would not—use for her new enterprise. Therefore, all books that she considered available had to be placed and arranged on the new shelves she had had built in the great old-fashioned living room of her father's home. She had made it into a most attractive studio-library with her own desk tucked into an alcove and the windows subtly curtained with a fabric that made all light from out of doors seem like sunlight.

In these surroundings, Edith established a sort of library that she felt there was a need of in her community. She selected books for people who could not get out. She had a telephone and mail service to which she attended personally and with the assistance of schoolgirls she delivered books and called for them. The charge was nominal but the advantage of being a member of this library was that your books were selected for you with a personal understanding of your taste. Edith conducted a circulating library, also, on the usual plan, but the main feature of her work was the attention to those who could not get about to choose their own reading matter. She made arrangements with a publishing house to let her have books at cost and by letting them out ten or twelve times they soon more than paid for themselves.

Once a year she planned to have a rummage sale of much-used books and at this sale she arranged to give employment to two old maiden ladies to whom she had suggested a plan. They were to be present at the sale to offer to cover the old books for those who bought them, in any kind of cretonne that might tone in with their decorations. Altogether, Edith found herself suddenly very busy, very happy and very successful in her newly found work, and every night she was thankful that she had discovered a use for her legacy.

Warner Dickson dealt in rare books and he had made more than one visit to Edith's attractive library to try to buy some of her good volumes. She refused to sell her precious editions, for, always, she had been a book-lover herself and now that she did not need to sell them, she would not.

"Books have always meant so much to me," he was telling her one afternoon, at twilight, "that a romantic fancy has possessed me all through my life that one day I should find my greatest happiness through them—and here they are."

"You knew my Uncle John?" she asked.

Dickson nodded. "Yes. He had gathered his books about him from everywhere and often, because of his wealth, he was able to buy the very books I was trying to get. Needless to say—I envied him."

"And now," laughed Edith, "you are trying to get them away from me!"

"Oh—only as a matter of business. I did not even know you the first time I called. Now, did I?"

Edith continued to smile. "Who says you do now?" she asked, lightly.

The man was silent, a trifle hurt. He wondered if she suspected him of trying to get her books away from her by this more than friendly attitude, this frequent visiting?

"Miss Martin—"

"Now—that's nice. It sounds like a perfectly proper school teacher or librarian."

He was annoyed. But he went on. "You have never asked me to come to see you. In a friendly way, and so, in order to be with you at all, I have to pretend a sustained interest, a vain hope, that by persistence I may get possession of those rare volumes."

"Oh—and if I should ask you to come to see me out of library hours, so to speak, you would still come?" she asked, naively.

"Try me," he retorted, boyishly.

With so vivid a common interest, so broad a meeting ground and temperaments that seemed to be harmonious from the very beginning, it was not surprising that Warner Dickson and Edith soon discovered their love for each other.

And instead of being a detriment to the success of the library, their partnership only made it a greater institution for they worked together for the same common cause—that of spreading good literature into fields where it was almost inaccessible.

REAL "CLASSICS" IN PROSE AND POETRY

Qualities That Render Them Immortal.

In literature the word classic was originally limited to Greek and Latin prose and poetry. It has now come to mean any piece of literature whose quality is such that it has survived for fifty or a hundred years and is by common consent regarded as so good as to be permanent. A literary classic should possess one or in of the following qualities:

1. It should reflect the mode of thought and the customs and manners of its time.

The travels of Herodotus, the dialogues of Socrates, and the novels of Jane Austen are examples.

2. It should be written in a beautiful and striking style.

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech is an example.

3. It should spring from and appeal to a cultivated imagination.

The poems of Keats are an example.

4. It should be a contribution to the thought of the world and should stimulate the thought of the world.

The essays of Ralph Waldo Emerson are an example.

5. It should possess a universal human interest and express all phases of human experience.

The Old Testament and Shakespeare's plays are examples.

No one generation can determine what classics it is producing. The final judgment must and will be pronounced by succeeding generations. Walt Whitman and Lincoln were looked on with contempt by many of their most highly educated contemporaries. And yet Whitman's "O Captain! My Captain!" and Lincoln's Gettysburg speech will live as long as the English language lives.

Nor does a classic have to be "high-brow stuff." If it is a genuine intelligent and witty picture of a certain aspect of society, even a "best-seller" may become a classic; although I am bound to say that most of our modern best-sellers have very little chance of achieving this immortality.

The "Hickory Papers," the "Biglow Papers," and "Night With Uncle Remus" were all best-sellers and are all classics. I hope I shall shock nobody by saying that I think "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" is more likely to become a classic than many contemporary novels or stories that are much more pretentious. Artificial and pretentious writing never makes a classic. Sincerity, simplicity and spontaneity are qualities that every true classic—whether in music, painting, prose or poetry—possesses; all others pretending to the titles are counterfeits. Let nobody hoodwink you into supposing that the classics are pompous, stilted, and boring. If they were, nobody would read them—not even your teachers and professors.—Lawrence F. 4 FIGHT ADAGES TO BE TRIED OUT NOW

"NO GOOD LITTLE MAN CAN BEAT GOOD BIG MAN"

AND A LOT OF OTHER SAWS WHEN MALONEY AND DELANEY CLASH

BOB FITZSIMMONS IN HIS DAY UPSET THE WEIGHT THEORY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Feb. 17.—Four tried-and-true fight adages are about to be tested again.

"No good little man can beat a good big man."
"Youth always will win against age."

"Brain is better than brawn."
"Experience has all the advantage over apprenticeship."

Figure those old saws out to your own way of thinking and you will have the winner of the contest in the Garden tomorrow night between Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, and Jack Delaney, world light heavyweight champion.

But whatever side you take you will find takers on the other.

Bob Fitzsimmons was one little man who upset the theory that weight is the vital factor in a fight.

Old Mike McTigue is just now in the process of proving that age isn't a fatal handicap against youth.

Big Luis Firpo made a fortune by proving brawn could get along fairly well without a brain.

Burly Paul Berlenbach demonstrated that experience isn't a vital necessity by winning a world's championship with the first two years of his career.

The coming contest between Maloney and Delaney, with all its complex angles, is the hardest fight to figure that has been arranged in modern times. If it happened to be just a contest between a heavyweight and a light heavyweight it would be much simpler to analyze.

But in addition to a purse that may reach $50,000 each, there is a much bigger prize for the winner, who will take a big jump toward a bout with Gene Tunney for the world championship.

Delaney has experience, reach and the most artistic mechanical equipment, a combination of boxing perfection and deadly hitting when the hole opens.

Maloney has youth, size and strength combined with boxing skill above the average and punching power.

Though it may be disputed, Delaney seems to have the edge on fighting brains and Maloney may have the benefit of a more natural fighting instinct.

All the various angles seem to lead to one point—will Delaney's brain and boxing skill be sufficient to overcome the size and strength of Maloney?

Delaney says that weight disparity should be ignored and that he will be strong enough at 175 pounds to hold his own in the clinches and to hit with equal power against an opponent who may weigh 25 pounds more than he does.

To a neutral observer—and it is hard to be neutral when you know both fighters and when you have seen the flashy Delaney working out in comparison with the stolid Maloney—it would seem that Delaney will have to get Maloney quickly if he gets him at all. He will have to fight at long range if he expects to retain his strength for a long fight, as Maloney is stronger and because of his youth and rugged physique can be expected to recover more quickly and last longer than his older and less rugged opponent.

Delaney may feel he is strong enough to take care of himself at close quarters but we believe Maloney is big enough and strong enough to smother him inside and Delaney isn't big enough to be mauled around for a long time by two hundred pounds of weight.

From what was heard around the Maloney training camp, the Boston Irishman's plan of battle will be to stay on top of Delaney all the time and force the fighting at close quarters, regardless of the speed of Delaney. Maloney feels that he can stay with him without winding himself and a large part of his training has been devoted to this.

Maloney's handlers point out that Delaney never has been an aggressive fighter until he saw his man was hurt and they admit that under those conditions he is a savage, the quickest man in the game to follow up an advantage. They claim that he will wait until the last round if necessary to get a spot for his right hand and if Maloney doesn't do the forcing it will be no fight.

"Delaney's best punches are landed as counters to right hand leads," Dan Morgan, one of Maloney's counsel, says. "But Delaney will wait all night for a right hand lead from Maloney."

Delaney's hope, according to his in-

HANDICAPPED TEAM LOSES

EVANGELICALS WIN EASILY FROM PRESBYTERIANS

LEAVES WINNERS LEADING THE LEAGUE WITH TWO WINS, NO LOSSES

ALL STARS BEAT EVANG. INTER-MEDIATES IN NON-LEAGUE GAME

Games Tonight at Y. M. C. A.

7:00—Meth. vs. Luth. Juniors.
7:30—Meth. vs. Baptist Inter.

The Evangelical Junior team leads the Sunday school league in the younger division by reason of their easy victory over the Presbyterians last night, the score being 13 to 2.

The first half ended 8 to 2, and the northeastern added five more points in the second half while holding the Presbyterians to none.

Almost all the northeast players had an equal share in the scoring. Wolleat and Ebinger making four points each, Marshall three and Clausen two. Anderson contributed the sole basket for the losers' two points.

The line-ups were:
Presbyterians—Anderson and Patterson, forwards; Creger, center; Nordstrom and Hohman, guards; with Belmont sub.

Evangelicals—Marshall and K. Clausen, forwards; Wolleat, center; Ebinger and D. Clausen, guards.

Field goals—Anderson 1, Marshall 1, Clausen 1, Wolleat 2, Ebinger 2. Free throws—Marshall 1.

The Finnish Lutheran Intermediates failed to show up for their game with the Evang. Intermediates, and an All-Star aggregation was formed to take their place, the game not counting toward the league standings.

The game was fast, with the lead changing continually. At the end of the first half the score was 10 to 7 in favor of the Evangelicals. Heikkinen got going in the second half and dropped in four field goals, Fitzharris put in two, and Gabiou one plus a free throw, and the game was theirs.

For the Evangelicals Purdy and Stanley were the leading scorers, with three field goals each, Krueger and Swearingen each putting in one, and Swearingen also added two free throws.

A crowd of about 80 people attended the game and were treated to a couple of fast games.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Banding against the national governing body, amateur billiard players of the mid-west have organized the American Amateur Billiard association.

Twelve states form the nucleus of the new organization.

The Western Amateur Billiard association was absorbed by the new body.

DICK HOWELL IN NEW PLUNGING RECORD

Chicago, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Dick Howell, former Northwestern university swimming star, established a new world's plunging record for 60 foot pools when he covered the length of the tank in 14 2-5 seconds.

A full second better than the old record, Howell's match will stand for all time, insofar as A. A. U. competition is concerned. It was agreed at the last convention of the national A. A. U. to abolish this event.

The record was formerly held by Guernsey of Yale who made it in 1923.

ILLINOIS CAGERS STAGE LAST MINUTE RALLY, DEFEAT N. W.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 17.—(UP)—After battling on almost even terms during the first half, Illinois' basketball team staged a last period rally that trounced Northwestern, 46 to 32.

Captain Daugherty and Lindsay led the Illinois scoring with five field goals each.

Hathaway and Gleichman scored two field goals for Northwestern while Fisher led his team with four. Gleichman's four free throws enabled his team to stay in the running during the first half.

LOTTIE SCHOEMMELL TO RACE GEO. YOUNG

New York, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Lottie Schoemmell, New York swimmer, through her manager, George Maines, has accepted the $25,000 challenge offered by William Wrigley, Jr., for a match race against George Young, the young Canadian, who was the first to swim across the Catalina channel.

Maines suggested that the race would be around Manhattan island. He said he was sure he would have no difficulty in raising the $25,000 for her end of the purse.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—(UP)—William Wrigley, Jr., chewing gum and baseball magnate, believes George Young, the 17-year-old boy who swam the Catalina channel, can beat any swimmer in the world over a distance of 20 to 30 miles in any body of water.

In support of this belief, Wrigley has come forward with an offer to back Young for $25,000 against any swimmer. He stipulated that this amount must be covered so that a purse of $50,000 would go to the winner.

The only condition is that the race be governed by the same rules observed in the Catalina swim.

Hardy Auto Salesman Throws 'Strangler' Lewis

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 17.—(UP)—A crowd of 8,000 which was decidedly partial to Jack Locker went wild with enthusiasm last night in the convention hall when the hardy auto salesman threw Ed "Strangler" Lewis, only to see him miserably defeated when the world's champion came back to championship form and took the second and third falls in a total of eleven minutes.

FIGHT RESULTS

London—Teddy Baldock, British flyweight, knocked out Johnny Brown in the third round. Alf Macini, light-weight, won a 12-round decision from Emilio Romero, France. The Prince of Wales and Prince George were among the spectators.

New York—Frankie Genaro, former American flyweight champion, won a 10-round decision from Joe Scalfaro, New York. Nick Quagarelli, New York featherweight, won a 10-round decision from Johnny Nibors.

BENSON DEFEATS RAINBOWS BY BIG SCORE, 58 TO 24

BRAINERD TEAM PLAYS UPHILL BATTLE WITH MANY MEN MISSING

TWO BENSON FORWARDS NET 20 POINTS EACH TO LEAD SCORING

The Rainbows played an uphill game at Benson last night and came back on the short end of a heavy score, 58 to 24. The trip was made without the services of three of the local guards, Orth, Fitzsimmons and Welsh being compelled to miss the trip.

Lawrenz, the only regular guard to make the trip, played a fine game, had his hands full taking care of the flashy forwards of the Benson team, and also scored two field goals and two free throws himself. Larson, normally a forward, played in a guard position, and handled himself well.

The two Benson forwards, Nelson and Gilbertson, played great games, leading the scoring throughout the game, making twenty points each during the fray. Their seven-foot-two center, Martinson, had a big advantage in the jump. The refereeing of the game was good, the official calling fouls closely and keeping the game clean and fast.

The Rainbows will leave this afternoon for Foley for a return game with that town. In a previous game here, the Rainbows won out over Foley, 30 to 27. The men making the trip are Engbretson, Nutting, Peterson, Lawrenz, Orth and Dillan.

Cleveland—Eddie Shea, Chicago featherweight, won a 12-round decision from Johnny Farr, Cleveland.

Carl Tremaine, Cleveland bantamweight, stopped Howard Mayberry, Canada, at the end of the sixth round.

WALKER, MILLIGAN FIGHT SIGNED

FOR WORLD MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP IN LONDON

NEXT JUNE

London, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Mickey Walker and Tommy Milligan have been signed by Promoter C. B. Cochran to fight for the world middleweight championship in London next June, the United Press was reliably informed today.

The largest purse ever offered in Great Britain's pugilistic history was said to have induced the fighters to sign the contracts.

The Walker-Milligan match would be the first world championship bout held in England in 13 years. The last occasion was the battle at London on July 7, 1914, just before the world war, between Freddy Welsh and Willie Ritchie.

Chicago Cardinals 2, Winnipeg 0

4 FIGHT ADAGES TO BE TRIED OUT NOW

"NO GOOD LITTLE MAN CAN BEAT GOOD BIG MAN"

AND A LOT OF OTHER SAWS WHEN MALONEY AND DELANEY CLASH

BOB FITZSIMMONS IN HIS DAY UPSET THE WEIGHT THEORY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Feb. 17.—Four tried-and-true fight adages are about to be tested again.

"No good little man can beat a good big man."

"Youth always will win against age."

"Brain is better than brawn."

"Experience has all the advantage over apprenticeship."

Figure those old saws out to your own way of thinking and you will have the winner of the contest in the Garden tomorrow night between Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, and Jack Delaney, world light heavyweight champion.

But whatever side you take you will find takers on the other.

Bob Fitzsimmons was one little man who upset the theory that weight is the vital factor in a fight.

Old Mike McTigue is just now in the process of proving that age isn't a fatal handicap against youth.

Big Luis Firpo made a fortune by proving brawn could get along fairly well without a brain.

Burly Paul Berlenbach demonstrated that experience isn't a vital necessity by winning a world's championship with the first two years of his career.

The coming contest between Maloney and Delaney, with all its complex angles, is the hardest fight to figure that has been arranged in modern times. If it happened to be just a contest between a heavyweight and a light heavyweight it would be much simpler to analyze.

But in addition to a purse that may reach $50,000 each, there is a much bigger prize for the winner, who will take a big jump toward a bout with Gene Tunney for the world championship.

Delaney has experience, reach and the most artistic mechanical equipment, a combination of boxing perfection and deadly hitting when the hole opens.

Maloney has youth, size and strength combined with boxing skill above the average and punching power.

Though it may be disputed, Delaney seems to have the edge on fighting brains and Maloney may have the benefit of a more natural fighting instinct.

All the various angles seem to lead to one point—will Delaney's brain and boxing skill be sufficient to overcome the size and strength of Maloney?

Delaney says that weight disparity should be ignored and that he will be strong enough at 175 pounds to hold his own in the clinches and to hit with equal power against an opponent who may weigh 25 pounds more than he does.

To a neutral observer—and it is hard to be neutral when you know both fighters and when you have seen the flashy Delaney working out in comparison with the stolid Maloney—it would seem that Delaney will have to get Maloney quickly if he gets him at all. He will have to fight at long range if he expects to retain his strength for a long fight, as Maloney is stronger and because of his youth and rugged physique can be expected to recover more quickly and last longer than his older and less rugged opponent.

Delaney may feel he is strong enough to take care of himself at close quarters but we believe Maloney is big enough and strong enough to smother him inside and Delaney isn't big enough to be mauled around for a long time by two hundred pounds of weight.

From what was heard around the Maloney training camp, the Boston Irishman's plan of battle will be to stay on top of Delaney all the time and force the fighting at close quarters, regardless of the speed of Delaney. Maloney feels that he can stay with him without winding himself and a large part of his training has been devoted to this.

Maloney's handlers point out that Delaney never has been an aggressive fighter until he saw his man was hurt and they admit that under those conditions he is a savage, the quickest man in the game to follow up an advantage. They claim that he will wait until the last round if necessary to get a spot for his right hand and if Maloney doesn't do the forcing it will be no fight.

"Delaney's best punches are landed as counters to right hand leads," Dan Morgan, one of Maloney's counsel, says. "But Delaney will wait all night for a right hand lead from Maloney."

Delaney's hope according to his intimates, is to beat Maloney to the punch, regardless of what hand leads and he feels sure that with his longer reach and his speed he will be able to do it.

Delaney is a three to two favorite in the betting but the fight looks like an even chance with Maloney a fine bet. Delaney has been picked by the majority of the experts but the writer will take a chance on being wrong.

EVANGELICAL JRS. WIN EASILY FROM PRESBYTERIANS

LEAVES WINNERS LEADING THE LEAGUE WITH TWO WINS, NO LOSSES

ALL STARS BEAT EVANG. INTERMEDIATES IN NON-LEAGUE GAME

Games Tonight at Y. M. C. A.
7:00—Meth. vs. Luth. Juniors.
7:30—Meth. vs. Baptist Intern.

The Evangelical Junior team leads the Sunday school league in the younger division by reason of their easy victory over the Presbyterians last night, the score being 13 to 2. The first half ended 8 to 2, and the northeasterners added five more points in the second half while holding the Presbyterians to none.

Almost all the northeast players had an equal share in the scoring. Wolleat and Ebinger making four points each, Marshall three and Clausen two. Anderson contributed the sole basket for the losers' two points.

The line-ups were:
Presbyterians—Anderson and Patterson, forwards; Creger, center; Nordstrom and Hohman, guards; with Belmont sub.

Evangelicals—Marshall and K. Clausen, forwards; Wolleat, center; Ebinger and D. Clausen, guards.

Field goals—Anderson 1, Marshall 1, Clausen 1, Wolleat 2, Ebinger 2. Free throws—Marshall 1.

The Finnish Lutheran Intermediates failed to show up for their game with the Evang. Intermediates, and an All-Star aggregation was formed to take their place, the game not counting toward the league standings.

The game was fast, with the lead changing continually. At the end of the first half the score was 10 to 7 in favor of the Evangelicals. Heikkinen got going in the second half and dropped in four field goals. Fitzharris put in two, and Gabiou one plus a free throw, and the game was theirs.

For the Evangelicals Purdy and Stanley were the leading scorers, with three field goals each, Krueger and Swearingen each putting in one, and Swearingen also added two free throws.

A crowd of about 80 people attended the game and were treated to a couple of fast games.

SHANGHAI DEFENSE REPORTED ROUTED, U. S. TAKES HAND

TRANSPORT CHAUMONT STEAMS
TO SHANGHAI WITH 1,300
MARINES

TROOPS OF MARSHAL SUN CHUAN
FANG STREAM OUT OF
HANGCHOW

By H. FRANCIS MISSELWITZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Shanghai, Feb. 17.—Reports from Hangchow today indicated that the rout of the Shanghai defenses there had been complete, and it was announced at the United States consulate that the U. S. S. transport Chaumont had been ordered to proceed direct to Shanghai with 1,300 marines aboard.

Troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, Chinese defender of Shanghai against the advance of the Cantonese nationalists from the south, today were reported to be streaming out of Hangchow aboard north bound trains.

Sun, so far as could be learned today, still was at Nanking, 150 miles northwest of Hangchow and about the same distance west of Shanghai.

No word had been received from Sun today as to his plans, if any, to stem the nationalist tide.

It was understood here that the Chaumont with marines aboard was to have made an intermediate stop between Honolulu and Shanghai, probably at Manila. But, the consulate said that those plans had been changed, and that the Chaumont would arrive here Feb. 24, one week from today.

Operating on a large scale, the nationalist troops, reinforced by fresh columns sent up from the south, were said to have closed in on the defending armies entrenched about Hangchow, forcing them back.

Shanghai first felt the effect of the sudden and unexpected shifting of the tide of battle against the defending army in the announcement that the railroad to Hangchow had stopped operating. Railroad officials explained that the railroad had suspended because of Marshal Sun's emergency request for 12 locomotives, 400 coaches and 80 armored cars.

Request for the armored cars was made, it was believed to expedite Marshal Sun's retreat northward.

Report of the new defeat suffered by Marshal Sun spread consternation through Shanghai, where thousands of foreign nationals, among them 4,000 Americans, have concentrated.

Foreigners have found some comfort in the arrival yesterday of additional British troops and the parade of 1,700 British Indian troops from the Punjab. The Punjab units, in full military equipment, paraded through the streets and then returned to their ships. They will be landed permanently upon the completion of additional barracks now under construction.

Coincidentally with the reported capture of Hangchow, another report from a reliable source told of the defeat of Marshal Sun's troops operating in Ning-Po, 95 miles southeast of Hangchow.

The defending troops, it was said, were surrounded in Ning-Po, a treaty port, and escaped capture by the southern force only by commandeering three vessels and escaping to sea.

AMERICAN COMPANIES GENERALLY HOSTILE TO MEXICAN OIL LAWS

Washington, Feb. 17.—(UP)—American companies controlling 90 per cent of Mexican oil producing lands and actually producing 70 per cent of Mexican oil have refused to accept the Mexican oil law, protested by the state department as confiscatory, Secretary of State Kellogg informed the senate yesterday.

In answering five questions contained in the Norris resolution, Kellogg said this government has not advised American corporations regarding acceptance of the Mexican law and proposed oil concessions.

Only four American companies have applied for the confirmatory concession, the secretary said. These are:

The Pan Mex Fuel Co., Texas Petroleum and Asphalt Co., East Coast Oil Co. and New England Fuel Oil Co.

"I understand that the first two mentioned companies are not actively producing petroleum in Mexico, and that the last two own no fee properties in that country," Kellogg said.

CARRIED BURDEN OF CRIME ON INNOCENT SHOULDERS

Columbus, O., Feb. 17.—(UP)—After four years behind the walls of the Ohio penitentiary John Spires caused the arrest of three persons for whose crime he claims he has innocently suffered.

Spires caused the arrest of Newton McGraw, wealthy Portsmouth business man, Charles McGraw, a cousin, and Mrs. Nellie McGraw Dixon, the girl for the love of whom he claims he went to prison to save her father from disgrace.

The three persons arrested charged with connection with the murder and robbery of Robert F. Morris, of Cincinnati, were held in jails in Chillicothe, Portsmouth and West Union following investigation of the unusual story told by Spires.

Spires told authorities he had taken responsibility for the crime to save his sweetheart's father, but later he learned that the girl had married while he was in prison.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS DE PINEDO HOP-OFF TO BRAZIL

Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Colonel Francisco de Pinedo announced at noon today he expected to depart on a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight to Brazil this afternoon.

De Pinedo spent the morning overhauling his Savoia hydroplane which yesterday experienced engine trouble and was unable to lift itself from the water at the hour appointed for the beginning of the trans-Atlantic flight.

The Italian is en route on a 25,000 mile journey which would take him through South America and the United States and Canada before the return to Italy by way of the north Atlantic.

Rome, Feb. 17.—(UP)—It was announced here today that Col. de Pinedo had been compelled to postpone his projected non-stop flight across the south Atlantic from Africa to Brazil. Bad weather, according to the announcement, prevailed over the course.

Farmer Resler Speaks From Experience

Well known Minnesota man now fully recovered. Tells friends that Tanlac put him on his feet when all else failed

Anton J. Resler, R. F. D. 5, Owatonna, is widely known among Minnesota farmers. Many of these good friends were worried about his poor health and amazed at his quick and complete recovery. "For a year I suffered untold agony," he tells them. "The very odor of food sickened me and what little I could eat lay like a stone in my stomach."

"Every morning I would rise with that awful pain inside me, and I had neither heart nor strength for the day's work. The smallest job was a dreary drudge to me then. I grew thin, weak and sorrowful, and returned to the house exhausted each evening. I grew discouraged and knew I couldn't stand it much longer."

"Seeing what it had done for other sick folks, I gave Tanlac a trial and can truthfully say it gave me relief from the first. The awful weight and pains in my stomach soon disappeared and my appetite came back. I was able to sleep naturally again for the first time in a year. Now I'm strong and well and go through the hardest day's work with ease. Nothing bothers me now. Tanlac will always have a warm place in my heart."

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA CREEPS FROM GRIP OF FLOODS

The Sierras crushed the camp buildings "like egg-shells," John Utterback, first survivor to reach Fresno, said today.

Utterback started from Camp 72 of the Southern California Edison Company with bodies of three companions killed in the disaster. He took them to El Prado, where they were transferred to a hearse and brought here.

"The avalanche came without warning," Utterback said. "It struck the bunk house at night with a terrific roar, and the men within had no chance to escape. The houses were crushed like egg-shells."

"I was above the ravine and until I heard the screams and cries from below, I didn't what what happened. All was confusion in the darkness—the white snow looming up against the blackness of the wrecked houses and survivors running around with excited calls to each other."

Utterback said he narrowly escaped death in a second slide a few hours after the first.

"I was working with five others, trying to pull bodies from the snow," he said. "There was a yell—and I saw an avalanche thirty feet high bearing down upon us. I jumped to the right. The others ran to the left and were trapped."

Utterback gave it as his opinion that some of the bodies would not be brought from their snow graves until spring.

SHANGHAI DEFENSE REPORTED ROUTED, U. S. TAKES HAND

TRANSPORT CHAUMONT STEAMS
TO SHANGHAI WITH 1,300
MARINES

HANGCHOW

By H. FRANCIS MISLWITZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Shanghai, Feb. 17.—Reports from Hangchow today indicated that the rout of the Shanghai defenses there had been complete, and it was announced at the United States consulate that the U. S. S. transport Chaumont had been ordered to proceed direct to Shanghai with 1,300 marines aboard.

Troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, Chinese defender of Shanghai against the advance of the Cantonese nationalists from the south, today were reported to be streaming out of Hangchow aboard north bound trains.

Sun, so far as could be learned today, still was at Nanking, 150 miles northwest of Hangchow and about the same distance west of Shanghai.

No word had been received from Sun today as to his plans, if any, to stem the nationalist tide.

It was understood here that the Chaumont with marines aboard was to have made an intermediate stop between Honolulu and Shanghai, probably at Manila. But, the consulate said that those plans had been changed, and that the Chaumont would arrive here Feb. 24, one week from today.

Operating on a large scale, the nationalist troops, reinforced by fresh columns sent up from the south, were said to have closed in on the defending armies entrenched about Hangchow, forcing them back.

Shanghai first felt the effect of the sudden and unexpected shifting of the tide of battle against the defending army in the announcement that the railroad to Hangchow had stopped operating. Railroad officials explained that the railroad had suspended because of Marshal Sun's emergency request for 12 locomotives, 400 coaches and 80 armored cars.

Request for the armored cars was made, it was believed to expedite Marshal Sun's retreat northward.

Report of the new defeat suffered by Marshal Sun spread consternation through Shanghai, where thousands of foreign nationals, among them 4,000 Americans, have concentrated.

Foreigners have found some comfort in the arrival yesterday of additional British troops and the parade of 1,700 British Indian troops from the Punjab. The Punjab units, in full military equipment, paraded through the streets and then returned to their ships. They will be landed permanently upon the completion of additional barracks now under construction.

Coincidentally with the reported capture of Hangchow, another report from a reliable source told of the defeat of Marshal Sun's troops operating in Ning-Po, 95 miles southeast of Hangchow.

The defending troops, it was said, were surrounded in Ning-Po, a treaty port, and escaped capture by the southern force only by commandeering three vessels and escaping to sea.

AMERICAN COMPANIES GENERALLY HOSTILE TO MEXICAN OIL LAWS

Washington, Feb. 17.—(UP)—American companies controlling 90 per cent of Mexican oil producing lands and actually producing 70 per cent of Mexican oil have refused to accept the Mexican oil law, protested by the state department as confiscatory, Secretary of State Kellogg informed the senate yesterday.

In answering five questions contained in the Norris resolution, Kellogg said this government has not advised American corporations regarding acceptance of the Mexican law and proposed oil concessions.

Only four American companies have applied for the confirmatory concession, the secretary said. These are:

The Pan Mex Fuel Co., Texas Petroleum and Asphalt Co., East Coast Oil Co., and New England Fuel Oil Co.

"I understand that the first two

mentioned companies are not actively producing petroleum in Mexico, and that the last two own no fee properties in that country," Kellogg said.

CARRIED BURDEN OF CRIME ON INNOCENT SHOULDERS

Columbus, O., Feb. 17.—(UP)—After four years behind the walls of the Ohio penitentiary John Spires caused the arrest of three persons for whose crime he claims he has innocently suffered.

Spires caused the arrest of Newton McGraw, wealthy Portsmouth business man, Charles McGraw, a cousin, and Mrs. Nellie McGraw Dixon, the girl for the love of whom he claims he went to prison to save her father from disgrace.

The three persons arrested charged with connection with the murder and robbery of Robert F. Morris, of Cincinnati, were held in jails in Chillicothe, Portsmouth and West Union following investigation of the unusual story told by Spires.

Spires told authorities he had taken responsibility for the crime to save his sweetheart's father, but later he learned that the girl had married while he was in prison.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS DE PINEDO HOP-OFF TO BRAZIL

Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Colonel Francisco de Pinedo announced at noon today he expected to depart on a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight to Brazil this afternoon.

De Pinedo spent the morning overhauling his Savoia hydroplane which yesterday experienced engine trouble and was unable to lift itself from the water at the hour appointed for the beginning of the trans-Atlantic flight.

The Italian is en route on a 25,000 mile journey which would take him through South America and the United States and Canada before the return to Italy by way of the north Atlantic.

Rome, Feb. 17.—(UP)—It was announced here today that Col. de Pinedo had been compelled to postpone his projected non-stop flight across the south Atlantic from Africa to Brazil. Bad weather, according to the announcement, prevailed over the course.

Farmer Resler Speaks From Experience

Well known Minnesota man now fully recovered. Tells friends that Tanlac put him on his feet when all else failed

Anton J. Resler, R. F. D. 5, Owatonna, is widely known among Minnesota farmers. Many of these good friends were worried about his poor health and amazed at his quick and complete recovery. "For a year I suffered untold agony," he tells them. "The very odor of food sickened me and what little I could eat lay like a stone in my stomach."

"Every morning I would rise with that awful pain inside me, and I had neither heart nor strength for the day's work. The smallest job was a dreary drudge to me then. I grew thin, weak and sallow, and returned to the house exhausted each evening. I grew discouraged and knew I couldn't stand it much longer."

"Seeing what it had done for other sick folks, I gave Tanlac a trial and can truthfully say it gave me relief from the first. The awful weight and pains in my stomach soon disappeared and my appetite came back. I was able to sleep naturally again for the first time in a year. Now I'm strong and well and go through the hardest day's work with ease. Nothing bothers me now. Tanlac will always have a warm place in my heart."

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA CREEPS FROM GRIP OF FLOODS

The Sierras crushed the camp buildings "like egg-shells," John Utterback, first survivor to reach Fresno, said today.

Utterback started from Camp 72 of the Southern California Edison Company with bodies of three companions killed in the disaster. He took them to El Prado, where they were transferred to a hearse and brought here.

"The avalanche came without warning," Utterback said. "It struck the bunk house at night with a terrific roar, and the men within had no chance to escape. The houses were crushed like egg-shells."

"I was above the ravine and until I heard the screams and cries from below, I didn't what what happened. All was confusion in the darkness—the white snow looming up against the blackness of the wrecked houses and survivors running around with excited calls to each other."

Utterback said he narrowly escaped death in a second slide a few hours after the first.

"I was working with five others, trying to pull bodies from the snow," he said. "There was a yell—and I saw an avalanche thirty feet high bearing down upon us. I jumped to the right. The others ran to the left and were trapped."

Utterback gave it as his opinion that some of the bodies would not be brought from their snow graves until spring.

OUTLINES PROVISIONS McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

E. G. Roth, County Agent, Spoke at Lions Club Meeting
Last Night

STRESSED ITS NECESSITY

Advocated That Citizens Use Influence in Securing
Passage of Bill

E. G. Roth, county agent of Crow Wing county talking before the Lions club last evening in the Ransford hotel outlining the provisions of the McNary-Haugen bill advocated that the Lions club and the citizens of Brainerd and Crow Wing county use all their influence with their congressman in clearing the passage of this bill.

Mr. Roth's speech in part was as follows:

"The McNary-Haugen bill or the Agricultural Surplus Control Bill now before the House of Representatives and just passed by the United States Senate has for its object stabilization of all agricultural commodities and primarily provides for the dealing with the surpluses of wheat, cotton, corn, rice and hogs.

"It provides for assistance to cooperative associations in handling surpluses of any agricultural commodity, whether one of the five basic commodities or not. This assistance may take the form of 4 percent loans to such cooperatives to assist in managing the surplus.

"It provides for loans to help cooperative associations construct or purchase facilities 'to be used in the storage or processing' of any agricultural commodity. These loans may be paid off by installments over a period of 20 years. The bill limits the aggregate amount of such property loans to $25,000,000.

"The bill provides for a board of thirteen members one each to be selected from each of the 12 federal reserve districts with the secretary of agriculture as chairman of the board. These 12 members are to be selected by a committee of five men called the nominating committee in each district, a nominating committee consisting of members of cooperative associations in that federal reserve district.

"The bill provides for a fund of $250,000,000 to be advanced by United States government to act as revolving fund in the stabilizing agricultural commodities. This fund is to be paid back by means of an equalization fee charged against each commodity aided by this bill, specifically by the five basic commodities, wheat, cotton, rice, corn, hogs.

"The needs for such a bill are numerous. Agriculture has been steadily declining since 1910. At that time the total farm indebtedness was a little over $4,000,000,000. This has increased to over $12,000,000,000 in 1925.

"Bank failures have increased in agricultural districts over 1,000 percent in the past five years due largely to the weakened condition of agriculture.

"Third, the farmers income as compared with income per capita of the non farm population has decreased in Minnesota 65 per cent.

"Fourth, agriculture is the largest industry of the United States and has an invested wealth greater than that of mining, manufacturing, and railroading combined and when this great industry suffers, all classes of people living in agricultural areas either directly or indirectly engaged in farming must suffer.

Objections Briefly Answered

"The first objection is that it would increase cost of living. My answer is that the cost of the finished agricultural product compared with the price of the raw material would not affect the price as for example the cost of wheat is a very small part of the cost of the loaf. The cost of raw cotton is a very small part of the cost of the cloth. Since the war the price of wheat has fluctuated from a low point of about one dollar per bushel to a high point of over two dollars per bushel. During the same period the retail price of bread in leading cities of the United States has varied less than five percent, according to figures of the Department of Agriculture.

"Second objection would be that it subsidizes agriculture. The bill contains no government subsidy to agriculture since by its provisions each commodity stands on its own base, paying for its own stabilization, instead of relying on the Treasury to absorb losses. The revolving fund is merely an advance of working capital, ultimately repayable to the Treasury and is not a subsidy but a Treasury loan for which there is abundant precedent.

"The third objection is that it is price fixing by the government. The answer is there are no price fixing provisions in the bill. The bill simply makes it possible for producers of basic commodity to bargain for fair prices. The legislation is intended to influence prices, but there is no more price fixing than many acts of Congress which were likewise aimed to influence prices such as the Tariff acts, the Federal Reserve Act, the Anti Trust Laws, the Adamson Law and the Transportation Act of 1920.

"The fourth objection is that it would increase production unduly. The answer is the bill places on the producers the responsibility of caring for it. The most effective deterrent to over production that has been devised is the equalization fee. The larger the surplus of any commodity the larger would be the equalization fee and the smaller would be the net income that the farmer would receive for the commodity and would act as a bar to increasing production to any large extent.

After Mr. Roth's interesting address, the Lions were entertained by several musical numbers rendered by the Lions quartet.

Last night's meeting was the last of the inter-city and local attendance contest and a last minute computation of percentages divulged the fact that the local den had won out over the Little Falls den by only a slight margin, while the two teams in the local club came out even up. The loss of the inter-city contest will probably cost the Little Falls club another famous dinner at Breezy Point.

The additional feature of the program last evening was the first of a series of talks on Lionism given by Dr. W. A. Edickson. Dr. Erickson's talk will be followed up by educational talks given by various clubs, all of which discussions are intended to educate and inform the membership more thoroughly upon matters pertaining to Lionism.

SEMPER PARATUS CLUB IN PLAY

Two Very Interesting Gues to be Presented Saturday Evening, February 19

AT HIGH SCHOOL GYMNASIUM

"Modesty" a Light Love Story, and
"The Wood Box" With Gull
Lake Locale

The Semper Paratus club, a student dramatic organization of the high school will present two very interesting plays, Saturday evening, February 19, in the high school gymnasium.

The plays are "Modesty," a light love story in one act and "The Wood Box," a two act play. The cast of Modesty includes:

Henriette, a widow—Collette Mraz
Albert—William Johnstone.
Jack—Milford Downie.

Suitors for her hand.
The cast of "The Wood Box," has the following characters:

Linnette, the Dancer's daughter—
Lois Cook.
Dave, a stranger who loves Lin-nette—Joseph Greener.

Mrs. Dancer—Sylvia Ericson.

Mr. Dancer—Henry Viken.

Mrs. Carson, housekeeper—Mildred Hagberg.

Dave Langley—William McClenhan.

The scenes of the latter play center around Gull Lake where Mr. Dancer, a typical business man, is on his summer vacation accompanied by his wife and daughter. Mrs. Dancer's anxiety over her daughter's resolute desires for a career furnishes the foundation for the plot. An item of special interest to the people of Brainerd should be that Mrs. Frank Hanft, formerly of this city, is the author of the play and will speak to the audience between acts.

These dramas are being put on by the club to give students experience in this line and should be especially interesting to the audience when the fact is considered that the entire coaching was done by three high school students, the Misses Margaret Armstrong, Marian Linnemann and Shirley Peterson.

Schools Talked to Boys
of Southeast

AT HARRISON SCHOOL

Urged 24 Boys Present to Stick to Scout Organization
and Ideals

Declaring that one of the best ways of preparing a firm foundation to meet the trials of life upon reaching early manhood was the training received while in the boy scouts and urging the boys to stick to their organization and advance to be Eagle Scouts, W. C. Cobb, superintendent of Brainerd schools last evening delivered an inspiring talk to 24 members of the Southeast Scout Troop at their meeting in the Harrison school.

The meeting which was the third one since the organization of the troop, was attended by members of the scout committee. Otto Heikinen, scoutmaster, instructed the boys in knot tying and other early forms of scoutcraft.

The boys showed enthusiasm throughout the entire meeting. B. Perry Newton, scout executive was present, conducting the boys in a songfest.

The new troop plan to provide keen competition with the rest of the city in sports and other competitions in scouting.

COAST GUARD EXAMINATION

A competitive examination for appointment for cadets to the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., will be held at Port St. Joseph, Mo., about June 20. This is an excellent opportunity for young men between the ages of 18 and 22 to secure an academic education at the expense of the government. Candidates must have a high school education or its equivalent. On account of the urgent need for commissioned officers that now confronts the Coast Guard, the opportunity for young men of the right sort to receive appointments is unusually favorable. For full particulars communicate with Representative Harold Knutson, 219-221 House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

GIVES FACTS ON U. S. HISTORY

Interesting Book Presented to Samuel Huntington Chapter,
D. A. R.

BY MRS. R. A. BRONSON

D. A. R. Manuals of United States
Presented to Night
School Students

A little book, one of the most complete and authentic sources of information regarding the many colonial flags and the early American flag was presented to the Samuel Huntington Chapter D. A. R. at its last meeting last week.

The book is published by the American Flag Manufacturing Co. Because the company was the authorized manufacturer of all government and navy flags at the time of the book's compilation, access was had to innumerable records, documents, letters, etc., which described or gave information regarding the numerous flags of pre-revolution days and the history of the Stars and Stripes. The correct stories of Betsy Ross and Barbara Fritzel are given and all the flags spoken of are illustrated in colors.

This book was presented by the regent, Mrs. M. A. Bronson, as were several beautifully illuminated copies of the accepted salute of the flag. These are suitable for framing and are to be sold by the chapter.

It was reported at the meeting that a delegation had presented D. A. R. Manuals of the United States to candidates for citizenship who are studying at the night school. Several of the manuals, written in foreign languages, were asked for and provided. This book is one of the most satisfactory hand books published for prospective citizens and one is gladly given to anyone having use for it.

Mrs. N. G. Nelson and Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley were hostesses for the meeting.

These 12 members are to be selected by a committee of five men called the nominating committee in each district, a nominating committee consisting of members of cooperative associations in that federal reserve district.

"The bill provides for a fund of $250,000,000 to be advanced by United States government to act as revolving fund in the stabilizing agricultural commodities. This fund is to be paid back by means of an equalization fee charged against each commodity aided by this bill, specifically by the five basic commodities, wheat, cotton, rice, corn, hogs.

"The needs for such a bill are numerous. Agriculture has been steadily declining since 1910. At that time the total farm indebtedness was a little over $4,000,000,000. This has increased to over $12,000,000,000 in 1925.

"Bank failures have increased in agricultural districts over 1,000 percent in the past five years due largely to the weakened condition of agriculture.

"Third, the farmers income as compared with income per capita of the non farm population has decreased in Minnesota 65 per cent.

"Fourth, agriculture is the largest industry of the United States and has an invested wealth greater than that of mining, manufacturing, and railroading combined and when this great industry suffers, all classes of people living in agricultural area either directly or indirectly engaged in farming must suffer.

"Objections Briefly Answered
"The first objection is that it would increase cost of living. My answer is that the cost of the finished agricultural product compared with the price of the raw material would not affect the price as for example the cost of wheat is a very small part of the cost of the loaf. The cost of raw cotton is a very small part of the cost of the cloth. Since the war the price of wheat has fluctuated from a low point of about one dollar per bushel to a high point of over two dollars per bushel. During the same period the retail price of bread in leading cities of the United States has varied less than five percent, according to figures of the Department of Agriculture.

"Second objection would be that it subsidizes agriculture. The bill contains no government subsidy to agriculture since by its provisions each commodity stands on its own base, paying for its own stabilization, instead of relying on the Treasury to absorb losses. The revolving fund is merely an advance of working capital, ultimately repayable to the Treasury and is not a subsidy but a Treasury loan for which there is abundant precedent.

"The third objection is that it is price fixing by the government. The answer is there are no price fixing provisions in the bill. The bill simply makes it possible for producers of basic commodity to bargain for fair prices. The legislation is intended to influence prices, but there is no more price fixing than many acts of Congress which were likewise aimed to influence prices such as the Tariff acts, the Federal Reserve Act, the Anti Trust Laws, the Adamson Law and the Transportation Act of 1920.

"The fourth objection is that it would increase production unduly. The answer is the bill places on the producers the responsibility of caring for it. The most effective deterrent to over production that has been devised is the equalization fee. The larger the surplus of any commodity the larger would be the equalization fee and the smaller would be the net income that the farmer would receive for the commodity and would act as a bar to increasing production to any large extent.

After Mr. Roth's interesting address, the Lions were entertained by several musical numbers rendered by the Lions quartet.

Last night's meeting was the last of the inter-city and local attendance contest and a last minute computation of percentages divulged the fact that the local den had won out over the Little Falls den by only a slight margin, while the two teams in the local club came out even up. The loss of the inter-city contest will probably cost the Little Falls club another famous dinner at Breezy Point.

The additional feature of the program last evening was the first of a series of talks on Lionism given by Dr. W. A. Edickson. Dr. Erickson's talk will be followed up by educational talks given by various clubs, all of which discussions are intended to educate and inform the membership more thoroughly upon matters pertaining to Lionism.

LOSES ONE HOG

Peter Wicklund Claims That Dressed Hog Stolen During the Night

Peter Wicklund, Long Lake this morning reported to the Dispatch the loss of one hog last night from his farm. He stated that he had butchered seven hogs yesterday and that on looking at them this morning one of the hogs was missing. He claims that the hog was stolen by a party who used an automobile to make a getaway. The hog was valued at $24.00.

SEMPER PARATUS CLUB IN PLAYS

Two Very Interesting Ones to be Presented Saturday Evening,
February 19

AT HIGH SCHOOL GYMNASIUM

"Modesty" a Light Love Story, and
"The Wood Box" With Gull
Lake Locale

The Semper Paratus club, a student dramatic organization of the high school will present two very interesting plays, Saturday evening, February 19, in the high school gymnasium.

The plays are "Modesty," a light love story in one act and "The Wood Box," a two act play. The cast of Modesty includes:

Henriette, a widow—Collette Mraz
Albert—William Johnstone.
Jack—Milford Downie.

Suitors for her hand.
The cast of "The Wood Box," has the following characters:

Linnette, the Dancer's daughter—
Lois Cook.

Dave, a stranger who loves Linnette—Joseph Greener.

Mrs. Dancer—Sylvia Ericson.
Mr. Dancer—Henry Viken.

Mrs. Carson, housekeeper—Mildred Hagberg.

Dave Langley—William McClennahan.

The scenes of the latter play center around Gull Lake where Mr. Dancer, a typical business man, is on his summer vacation accompanied by his wife and daughter. Mrs. Dancer's anxiety over her daughter's resolute desires for a career furnishes the foundation for the plot. An item of special interest to the people of Brainerd should be that Mrs. Frank Hanft, formerly of this city, is the author of the play and will speak to the audience between acts.

These dramas are being put on by the club to give students experience in this line and should be especially interesting to the audience when the fact is considered that the entire coaching was done by three high school students, the Misses Margaret Armstrong, Marian Linnemann and Shirley Peterson.

NO INDICATION OF DROP

Price of Gas in City Remains Unchanged Although Takes Drop in St. Cloud

Although price reduction of three cents a gallon in gasoline is already in effect in St. Cloud, no indication is at present in sight in Brainerd of any drop, it was learned today from gasoline dealers here.

The price of gas ranges from 23.1 to 26.1 cents per gallon in Brainerd.

ADDRESSES NEW SCOUT TROOP

W. C. Cobb, Superintendent of Schools Talked to Boys
of Southeast

AT HARRISON SCHOOL

Urged 24 Boys Present to Stick to Scout Organization
and Ideals

Declaring that one of the best ways of preparing a firm foundation to meet the trials of life upon reaching early manhood was the training received while in the boy scouts and urging the boys to stick to their organization and advance to be Eagle Scouts, W. C. Cobb, superintendent of Brainerd schools last evening delivered an inspiring talk to 24 members of the Southeast Scout Troop at their meeting in the Harrison school.

The meeting which was the third one since the organization of the troop, was attended by members of the scout committee, Otto Heikinen, scoutmaster, instructed the boys in knot tying and other early forms of scoutcraft.

The boys showed enthusiasm throughout the entire meeting. B. Perry Newton, scout executive was present, conducting the boys in a songfest.

The new troop plan to provide keen competition with the rest of the city in sports and other competitions in scouting.

COAST GUARD EXAMINATION

A competitive examination for appointment for cadets to the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., will be held at Fort Snelling, Minn., about June 20. This is an exceptional opportunity for young men between the ages of 18 and 22 to secure an academic education at the expense of the government. Candidates must have a high school education or its equivalent. On account of the urgent need for commissioned officers that now confronts the Coast Guard, the opportunity for young men of the right sort to receive appointments is unusually favorable. For full particulars communicate with Representative Harold Knutson, 219-221 House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Interesting Book Presented to Samuel Huntington Chapter,
D. A. R.

BY MRS. R. A. BRONSON

D. A. R. Manuals of United States
Presented to Night
School Students

A little book, one of the most complete and authentic sources of information regarding the many colonial flags and the early American flag was presented to the Samuel Huntington Chapter D. A. R. at its last meeting last week.

The book is published by the American Flag Manufacturing Co. Because the company was the authorized manufacturer of all government and navy flags at the time of the book's compilation, access was had to innumerable records, documents, letters, etc., which described or gave information regarding the numerous flags of pre-revolution days and the history of the Stars and Stripes. The correct stories of Betsy Ross and Barbara Fritelle are given and all the flags spoken of are illustrated in colors.

This book was presented by the regent, Mrs. M. A. Bronson, as were several beautifully illuminated copies of the accepted salute of the flag. These are suitable for framing and are to be sold by the chapter.

It was reported at the meeting that a delegation had presented D. A. R. Manuals of the United States to candidates for citizenship who are studying at the night school. Several of the manuals, written in foreign languages, were asked for and provided. This book is one of the most satisfactory hand books published for prospective citizens and one is gladly given to anyone having use for it.

Mrs. N. G. Nelson and Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley were hostesses for the meeting.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS—
WHY ROUGE IS PAY DIRT

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, Feb. 17.—(UP)—An editorial in a New York newspaper recently stated that women who use powder, rouge and lipstick are dirty. They're quite as dirty as coal miners with black sooty faces, according to this editorial.

Mebbe so! Mebbe so! But if rouge is dirt it's pay dirt! It pays to look healthy even if one isn't. It pays to tint the age-sallow face into a semblance of youth, health and attractiveness. The days have passed when a thin layer of powder or rouge was the dividing line between respectability and wantonness. Anyone recalling those days of pimply-faced and sallow females have reason to resent the inference that 80 percent of the women of today are dirty. Powder acts as a protection against dust and dirt. Very seldom do we find facial blemishes on a woman who uses face creams and cosmetics. It's the unpainted lilies who look greasy, grimy and shined noses. Powders keep dust and dirt of city streets from getting into the pores and clogging them. A good powder will not injure the skin. Otherwise doctors would not advise its use for babies.

Unfortunately, women lose the bloom of youth almost before they reach maturity. This is partially due to the fact that business women and wives are confined indoors a great part of the time. Motherhood often takes the bloom from one's cheeks. We cannot combat these things. What a hideous lot of females we would be without the aid of the powder puff, rouge box and lipstick. American women are generally fair complexioned and such complexions demand pink cheeks and lips. Dark Oriental types can afford to go rougeless as pallor adds to the beauty of dark eyes and hair. Nothing is homelier than a washed-out blond with colorless lips and yellowish dry skin. A little rouge and powder gives such a person a new lease on life. Nature tells us in youth what our color schemes should be and when we find ourselves to be gazing on the downhill grade it's up to us to pep things up a bit. Powder and dry rouge applied lightly over an astringent lotion takes at least ten years off one's age. Lip rouges keep the lips soft and youthful and protect them from chapping. The woman who has used powder all her life usually has a better complexion than the woman who has never used anything but soap and water on her face. Hands that are cold-creamed nightly and powdered daily keep youthful much longer than unprotected hands.

No More Piles

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

This Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting, he discovered the cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Every pile sufferer should benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

CHARLES RINTALA
WINS SPUD CROWN

St. Paul, Feb. 17.—(UP)—The potato crown of Minnesota's junior farm clubs today was placed on the brow of Charles Rintala, St. Louis county, who raised 464 bushels of the tubers per acre.

Alfred Kaiser, Bemidji, won second prize with an average yield of 432 bushels to the acre, and Harvey Cartwright, Shevlin, was third with one point below Kaiser.

Announcement of winners was made from the office of T. A. Erickson, University of Minnesota, state boys' and girls' club leader.

MABEL NORMAND
NEARS CRISIS IN BATTLE FOR LIFE

Santa Monica, Calif., Feb. 17.—(UP)—Nearing the crisis in her battle for life, Mabel Normand, screen comedienne, was reported unchanged in condition today.

While her equally famous husband, Lew Cody, hovered near her bedside, physicians resorted to diathermy electrical machines and electricity was inducted into her body in an effort to curb the ravages of pneumonia.

Flowers and telegrams poured into the Santa Monica hospital while friends have called to ask her condition.

Recording Land Sales

The Torrens system has been described as follows: It is a system of registration of titles to land (as distinct from registration of deeds). It was introduced into South Australia by the Real Property (or Torrens) act (laws of 1857-58), drafted by Sir Robert Richard Torrens (1814-84). The essential feature of the Torrens system is the guaranty by the government of properly registered titles. The system has been generally adopted in Australia and British Columbia, and in its original or a modified form in some other countries, including some states of the United States.

New Business Idea

A retail drug store at Seattle, Wash., bought up the street car capacity of the city for the hour between 9 a. m. and 10 a. m. During this period any one might ride to town free. The result was that twice as many people as usual entered the retail district that forenoon. (The store playing the host regarded the deal as good business. Soon there were enough applications for the same innovation to sell the car service each day for a month.

Hares and Rabbits

The meat of hares and rabbits is quite similar; both live entirely upon vegetable matter. The flesh of the former is darker and dry in comparison with the latter, which is in some respects superior, being more savory and of higher flavor.

Bad Stomach
Made Her
Arms Yellow

"I had indigestion so bad that my hands and arms turned yellow, and if it had not been for Adlerika, I think I should have died. There is nothing better for indigestion." —Mrs. Mary Hannaford.

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. Johnson's Pharmacy, Economy Drug Co. and other druggists.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

HUNTING DOG IS RESCUED FROM CAVE

Woodruff, S. C., Feb. 17.—(UP)—"Ring", famous hunting dog of Van Kelly, was rescued at 4 a. m. today from the cave that held him prisoner without food for a week.

The hound wriggled through the passage made by rescuers shortly before dawn, barked his appreciation to the 200 persons who stood about the cave and leaped into his master's arms.

Apparently "Ring" had suffered no ill effects from his imprisonment.

The dog was trapped by a rock after he had chased a fox into the cave. Dynamite and drills were used to cut a passage for his escape.

FIND ANOTHER
BODY; ONE OF
HOUSE BOAT PARTY

St. Paul, Feb. 17.—(UP)—Another of the four persons drowned in the Mississippi last November was accounted for today when police identified a body cast up near the airport as that of Joe Becker.

Charles Randall and Becker were among four who lost their lives when a row boat capsized as a dozen merry-makers fled from a house boat party at the approach of police.

Randall's body was found about two weeks ago. The two persons still missing are Jane Pothen and Harriet Klemp.

Heals Eczema in
7 Days or Less

Or Your Money Back

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers that are discharging are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a few days. The same is true of barber's itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moore's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. H. P. Dunn and all druggists can supply you at any time. —Adv.

AN OLD RECIPE
TO DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. MICKIE SAYS

AIN'T IT FUNNY, HOW WHEN A FELLER GETS SORE AN' STOPS HIS PAPER, HE ACTS SURPRISED BECAUSE WE DON'T ALL BUST OUT INTO TEARS AND HANG GRAPE ON THE DOOR?

RECIPE TO CLEAR
A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through

Skin Pores

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate; then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for one week. This will help prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually helps make pimples disappear. —Adv.

Corns

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.
